Arbitration rejected as school dispute solution

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record
Should a "third party" decide the terms of a working agreement between the Granite City school district and its 30 teachers?
Both sides flitted with the idea during their dispute that delayed the start of the fall term. But eventually they achieved a settlement across a two-sided bargaining table.
Granite City Teachers' Federation Local 743 suggested advisory arbitration, and school district negotiators then proposed utilizing federal mediation.
Some thought also was given to binding arbitration, newly authorized under a law that was signed by Governor James R. Thompson and went into immediate effect this summer.
The new law allows school systems and teachers to enter into collective bargaining (they were doing it anyway here and in most Illinois districts). And it permits them voluntarily to agree to abide by binding arbitration.

The strength of a binding procedure is regarded as the fact that it offers a surefire answer. Any differences of opinion are ruled on by the third party, and its findings are mandatory.
The same factor is also viewed as the weakness of binding arbitration; it provides a solution, but is it the right solution? Neither side can be sure, because neither can predict the identity of the arbitrator, the soundness of his logic, or the depth of his understanding of the issues.
The American Arbitration Association is considered to be the chief source of arbitrators, who are chosen by the two affected groups through a process of elimination.
Regardless of the ability and experience of an arbitrator, his basic unfamiliarity with what is at stake usually is cited as the major criticism of the process of letting an "outsider" settle a disagreement.

From teachers' standpoint, resort to arbitration might have delayed the outcome of negotiations and prevented the faculty members from receiving any immediate improvement of their

Last of century

Wednesday, Sept. 9, 1981, was the last "square root day" of this century.
If you are asking yourself what a "square root day" is, and you probably are, it is a day when the numerical value of the day and month equals the square root of the current year. Wednesday was 9-9-81 and the square root of 81 is nine.
The last "square root day" occurred on Aug. 8, 1984, of 8-8-84. If you are willing to wait for the next "square root day," mark your calendar for Jan. 1, 2001 (1-1-01).

Farmers rally against assessment multiplier

"We're calling on all Madison County farmers to get together to do something about this," Hamel Township farmer Richard M. Gusewille said Tuesday in discussing what he regards as overcharges on 1980 property tax bills.
"Farmers have just received tax bills that illegally increased assessments up to 25 percent on farm buildings. This caused increases of more than $100 on many tax bills," Gusewille contended.
The Organizing Committee for Eastern Madison County and the Farm Alliance will hold a public meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 15, at 8 p.m. at the Hamel Community Center, to address this issue. State Senator Vince DeMuzio (D, Carlisle) will be present at the meeting to help explain the new statewide farmland assessment law.

A committee statement this week said, "The supervisor of assessments and the Madison County Board of Review computed farmers' assessments with a multiplier applied to the assessed value of their farm buildings."

Madison school board tried to block open talks, member charges

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record
Madison teachers are neither overpaid nor underqualified a committee of the Madison Board of Education stated during a brief, but heated meeting of the board Tuesday night.
The meeting was called to give the committee the opportunity to respond in public to publish criticism by Board Member Don Garrett, who alleged in "Letters to the Editor" of local newspapers that the board was continuing a "give-a-way" to taxpayers' money.

Asked why he decided to air his complaints in the newspapers, rather than expressing them at school board meetings, Garrett told the board that he felt the board was attempting to block open, public discussion of the issues by referring his allegations to committee and by holding meetings on nights when newspaper reporters were unable to attend.
He said he was appointed to a committee on communications about a year ago which was designed to resolve such disagreements. However, the committee met only three or four times and has never done anything concrete, Garrett contended.
"If it had reported, you probably would have had to fire your superintendent," he alleged.
Mrs. Billie Bosworth, a school board member and chairman of the committee on communications, responded angrily that Garrett was a member of the committee, but it was difficult to get him to attend meetings. "I don't feel he has been very helpful in bringing that report about. I also think he would have the success of Madison students is not in spite of the school system, but because of it, committee finds.

to state that I have asked him over and over again (to attend meetings). I think you are a little out of line here," Mrs. Bosworth said to Garrett.

A brief shouting match between Garrett, Board Member Paul Bargiel and Mrs. Bosworth ensued and Board President Sam Dymas called for order, stating, "We're not going to have a screaming match here."
Garrett responded, "To get through to you, I have to do more than scream. I have to write letters to the editor."
Bargiel, who headed the committee to investigate Garrett's printed allegations, said, "It is very hard to communicate when of 42 meetings of the school board, you have been late or absent 26 times, counting tonight." Garrett was five minutes late to Tuesday night's meeting.
Garrett responded, "Those are your figures," and Bargiel said the figures were from the board's minutes. "And you know who those are done by," Garrett hinted.

He also alleged that the board has held some meetings on Tuesday nights, so that newspaper reporters assigned to cover Madison governmental events would be occupied with the Madison City Council and would be unable to cover those simultaneous meetings of the school board.

Later, Bargiel told a reporter that there had been few Tuesday night meetings and one had even been scheduled early, before the city council meeting, so Garrett and reporters could attend both. He contended the school board had to wait two hours for Garrett to appear that night.

Garrett also contended, "You call meeting after meeting when it is unnecessary. Most business can be taken care of at regular Thursday night meetings."

He supported his contentions in the newspaper letters, despite the committee findings to the contrary. "Everything I have said is still accurate," Garrett contended.

In his letters, Garrett alleged that teachers were given "Fat pay raises to prevent a strike" and so the district could "sweep all the dissent and controversy under the rug and deplorable conditions in the quality of education and teaching conditions remain."

The committee, consisting of Bargiel, Mrs. Bosworth and Board Member James Newsome, responded in a

Students, motorists 'better watch step' at Jill-Nameoki traffic light

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record
What might have been total confusion at the new traffic control lights at Nameoki Road and Jill Avenue hasn't materialized and the resulting vehicle-pedestrian pattern appears to be working out fairly well, according to official observers.
But a few drivers apparently need to be reminded of the rules of the road and some pedestrians, quite literally, had better watch their step.

The foot-travelers in question primarily are students crossing the intersection going to and from the campus of Granite City High School South and Coolidge Junior High School.
Motorists who need to exercise cautious restraint are those turning left (south) onto Nameoki Road from Jill Avenue.

A seven-second green traffic light sequence exists for drivers exiting Jill, which is timed with the signal lights at Nameoki and Madison and Nameoki and Fehling.

If the walk button is pushed at Jill, however, the green light cycle is extended to an 11-second "walk" light and a 16-second "don't walk" period for pedestrians and traffic crossing Nameoki Road at Jill.

Students and other pedestrians must press the light button to halt traffic traveling north and south on Nameoki Road to gain more than the regular seven-second period, a fact which is being emphasized this week by on-the-spot school officials.

Removal of a police officer directing traffic at the intersection before and after school is now an accomplished fact.

The kids and drivers are on their own.

Representatives of the police department, school district and the Illinois Department of Transportation have been closely observing the situation, however.

These observations have resulted this week in Granite City Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer issuing some words of advice to both students and motorists.

"All traffic must yield to pedestrians in a crosswalk," the police chief stated.

"Special attention to this basic rule of the road should be paid by drivers turning left from Jill onto Nameoki, as some infractions of this law have been observed."

"We will start issuing traffic tickets shortly to drivers who cut into the flow of pedestrians crossing the intersection," Chief Veizer stated.

"Students must also obey the rules by remaining within the crosswalk and by not leaving the curb until the walk light is on," the police executive emphasized.

To help eliminate traffic tieups during school hours, drivers of R. W. Harmon school buses are now making left turns into the northern entrance of the Coolidge JHS semicircular drive, rather than turning directly into the South High parking

United Way drive kickoff Tuesday

The 1981 fall campaign of the Tri-Cities United Way will get under way Sept. 15 at a breakfast featuring Buddy Davis, district director of the United Steelworkers of America, as the speaker.

The kick-off breakfast will be served at 7:30 a.m. at the Township Building, 2600 Delmar Ave.

A major phase of the meeting will be the announcement of the quota which hundreds of campaign workers will be expected to raise during the campaign.
After the quota is announced, the first report meeting of campaign workers will be held in the YMCA on Friday, Oct. 2.

Similar report meetings will be held on Friday, Oct. 16, Friday, Oct. 30, and the final report will be made on Friday, Nov. 13. All of the meetings will be noon luncheon sessions at the "Y".
Campaign officials hope to accomplish at least 25 percent of the quota at each report session.

Melvin C. Wilmsmeyer is general chairman of this year's campaign.

Ozzie Sweet to lecture at photographic seminar

Camera buffs, young and old, basic, amateur, advanced and professional will be presented a seminar sponsored by the Tri-Cities Area YMCA of Granite City.

Ozzie Sweet, world famous photographic illustrator will lecture at the Granite City Township Hall starting at 1:30 p.m. on Sept. 19.

Ozzie Sweet has over 1,700 magazine covers to his credit and has photographed such noted personalities as Bob Hope, Jimmy Durante, and many others. He has been written about in the major photography magazines and referred to as "The Wizard of Oz with a Camera."

Magazines to Sweet's credit include: Time, Newsweek, Look, Saturday Evening Post, Popular Photography. Sweet is called to lecture by many major photographic companies, camera clubs, and state photographic organizations.

Seating will be limited and is on a first come, first served basis. If interested in attending the Sweet Seminar, persons may contact the Tri-Cities Area YMCA at (618) 876-7200 or send $10 to 2100 Edison Ave., Granite City, Ill. 62040.

The seminar which offers "much for the buck" will expose the registrant to the field of free lance photography and the how, when, and where of selling photographs. Other topics to be covered will be sports and actions, split-level, wildlife and zoo, price and propping, and magazine covers and how they are different.

Pension plan first
In 1876 the American Express Co. established the first pension plan in U.S. industry. It was financed entirely by the employer.

OZZIE SWEET, widely known magazine photographer, will lecture in a seminar on photography in the Granite City Township Building at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 19. Seating will be limited and admission will be on a first-come, first-served basis. The lecture is to be sponsored by the Tri-City YMCA.

2 million children have asthma

More than two million children in our country, 16 years of age and younger, suffer with asthma each year. You will read about warm-up exercises to help your body handle exercise and sports without stress, and how to talk to your doctor.

Clark Branch of the American Lung Association at 523 N. Old St. Louis Road in Wood River, or write them at P.O. Box 158. There is a $7 charge for the kit to help cover part of the cost of its production.

A new book, "Super-Stuff," which is a self help program for these sufferers and their parents, is being offered by the Lewis-Clark Branch of the American Lung Association.

It's filled with facts about asthma—what causes it, what happens when you have an asthma attack and can't breathe very well, and what you can do about it.

Written just for kids, it does not have long, confusing medical words. It tells you about your asthma in words you can understand.

The "Super-Stuff" kit also contains a mini-record about asthma, a brightly-colored poster for your bedroom wall, and a newspaper full of facts about asthma, for your parents to read.

You will learn what happens to your body when you have asthma, and learn to recognize early warning signs of an asthma attack.

Games in the book teach you what can cause these attacks. And you'll learn to build a "tracking station" with a record of your own asthma attack patterns.

Included is a pilot training manual to help you navigate safely through weather, emotions, foods, exercise, animals and plants to help you control asthma by controlling your surroundings.

"Super-Stuff" also has quizzes, dots and numbers games, comic strips, a mystery story, a backwork mirror game, door signs, stickers, mazes, word games, poems, puzzles and your own telephone number.

Washburn is named to government affairs

Governor James R. Thompson has announced that he has appointed John E. Washburn as Director of the Governor's Office of Legislative Affairs, effective Tuesday.

Washburn, 38, has been Senate Liaison in that office since February 1981. "John Washburn has been deeply involved in the activities of Illinois state government for more than a decade," the governor said. "I'm proud to have someone with John's knowledge and background and understanding of the legislative process to direct this important task."

Before joining the governor's staff, Washburn had been the Staff Director of the Illinois Senate Appropriations Committee since December 1976. From February 1975 to November 1976, Washburn served as assistant staff director of the committee. For the two years prior to that, he was a legislative budget analyst for the committee.

In September 1970, Washburn joined the State Office of Minority Businesses as a coordinator, assisting small businessmen in starting businesses.

Washburn graduated from Northern Illinois University in 1968 with a Bachelor's Degree in political science. Washburn, who is married and has one child, has an annual salary of $46,224.

Meet on health planning process

Public comment on the future of health planning in Illinois will be heard at a series of five public hearings Sept. 14, 16 and 18.

The hearings, conducted by the Illinois Department of Health and the Statewide Health Coordinating Council, will take place at five different locations throughout the state in order to give as many people as possible an opportunity to comment on the future of the health planning process.

Issues to be discussed include the appropriate role and responsibility of the state in health planning; the appropriate form and structure; potential financial support; the role and responsibility of community planning; who should participate in the planning process; and whether health planning is necessary for certificates of need.

Hearing sites will include Chicago and Joliet on Monday, Peoria on Tuesday and Marion on Wednesday. A hearing from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 15, is set for the Department of Transportation Building, auditorium, 2300 South Dirksen Parkway, Springfield.

Carlson heads IEPA

Governor James R. Thompson announced the appointment Thursday of Richard J. Carlson as director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

"Rich Carlson has served well as my policy advisor on energy, environmental and other natural resources issues over the past two years," Thompson said. "He has the support of both business and environmental groups in his new position and I am confident that with his guidance the state will continue to meet the needs of our environmental and business communities."

Carlson, 57, is currently assistant to the governor for energy, natural resources, and environmental issues. He is responsible for coordinating the work of several state agencies, including the IEPA. He also supervises the preparation of the governor's legislative recommendations on energy and environmental issues and works closely with lawmakers and interest groups on those topics.

From 1977 to 1979, he was an assistant to the governor for reorganization. He also served as the director of research for the non-profit Council of State Governments from 1974 to 1977 and as an adjunct professor in the Graduate School of Public Affairs at Kentucky State University in 1976.

In addition, he has worked for the National Municipal League and as coordinator of research for the Illinois Constitutional Convention in 1970. He was graduated from the University of Illinois with a master's degree in 1968 in journalism and a doctorate in political science in 1976.

The director of the IEPA receives an annual salary of $43,000 and requires Senate confirmation.

Bridal registry at phone center

Bridal registries are "something old" — but the fact that Illinois Bell is now offering a bridal registry service is "something new."

The "wedding gift service" is available at all Illinois Bell's 76 PhoneCenter Stores, located throughout the state. Bridal registry is a familiar retail service, said Grace Jakubs, of Bell's residence marketing planning. "But it's new for us and represents another step in establishing Illinois Bell in the retailing market."

Family members and friends can purchase Bell's Design Line telephones in the same way china, silverware and linens are obtained as shower or wedding gifts. When the bride-to-be registers her choice of phones at a PhoneCenter Store, her selection will be placed in a centralized record accessible to sales clerks at any PhoneCenter Store. This will enable customers throughout the state to select a gift phone of her choice, no matter where the bride registered.

Grace Jakubs said, "more than 100,000 couples were married in Illinois during 1979 and that figure is increasing every year."

"Illinois Bell is introducing wedding gift service at this time to take advantage of the popularity of fall weddings. Contrary to popular belief, more weddings are held during the last half of the year than in the first half."

There is no charge for brides to register.

Art fest for handicapped

About 850 handicapped children, their parents and teachers will participate in the fourth annual Very Special Arts Festival, Oct. 23 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The festival is designed to help teachers use the arts in teaching handicapped children. "We've had excellent attendance the past three years," said Diane Savoca, co-chairman of the festival, "and when you see the joy on the children's faces, you realize the value of the arts in their education."

It will be preceded by an in-service training session for teachers Oct. 1, also at SIUE. Teachers who want to participate in the festival Oct. 23 must attend the training session Oct. 1, she said.

Handicapped children generally react enthusiastically to the arts, she commented. "The arts can be a bright light in their lives—the expression for a speechless child, the hope of wonderful things to come. Our main goal is to extend opportunities for handicapped children to learn in the arts, through the arts and about the arts."

"Outstanding consultants will show teachers and students how to better use the arts."

"They'll share their skills with the teachers at the in-service and then return to work with the children on the festival day."

The festival is sponsored by SIUE, the Lewis and Clark Council for Exceptional Children, Tenco (a ten-county educational cooperative), and the Illinois Arts Council in cooperation with the Illinois State Board of Education and the National Committee on arts for the Handicapped.

"EVERYTHING FOR BUILDING HEALTH"

Average state employee being paid $15,559

The average annual salary for state employees working for the constitutional offices, the 23 major cabinet-level departments and the higher education systems was $15,559 at the end of 1980, Comptroller Roland W. Burris reported this week.

Of those three major categories, Burris said that higher education had the highest average ($15,815), the cabinet departments next ($15,754) and the constitutional offices of governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, comptroller and treasurer ranked third ($15,100). In his monthly fiscal report, Burris presents a special study of state employment in the major agencies.

At full employment, the state payroll averages 120,000 employees. The special study examines 108,000 of these. The present Illinois economic picture finds that workers' paychecks climbed substantially in the last year in Illinois but spendable earnings inched up only two percent, about the same as in 1979, Burris said. Although the Illinois job outlook is slightly improved, more people are entering the labor force and looking for jobs. As for the fiscal outlook of state government, July was a positive month with revenues running $63 million higher than expected. Highlights of the special report on state employment: —Symbolizing the quest for career professionalism in state government, the Department of Law Enforcement, with 3,000 employees' state salaries have grown 6.7 percent in the last three years and average annual salaries have increased by $5,168 or 35 percent.

Resignations and turn-overs in the state universities' merit system have slowed in the last three years, though a uniform pay plan has never been implemented.

Northern Illinois University has undergone the most dramatic restructuring of staff with these results: Staff positions dropped from 5,199 to 3,517 in the last three years, but average annual staff salaries climbed from $9,236 to $15,550, up 66.2 percent, in the same period.

Higher education average annual salaries rose from $12,551 in December 1977 to $15,815 by the end of 1980.

The state's six constitutional officers have varied personnel programs. Half are based on personnel tests and merit systems, and the other half negotiate salaries and hire on the basis of interview appointments. The governor's office pays top dollar (at the end of 1980) with a $19,796 annual salary average. The secretary of state is the lowest of the six with a salary average of $13,308 annually.

The Department of Personnel, which structures the pay levels and practices for 60,000 employees in 23 cabinet-level agencies under the governor, has boosted salaries from an average annual figure of $12,306 in December 1977 to $15,754 by the end of 1980.

Reviewing the private job sector, Burris noted substantial growth in the earnings power of Illinois workers in the year ended on June 30, 1981.

In average weekly pay, manufacturing pay rose 15.1 percent from $213 a year ago to $246; construction rose 6.2 percent from $466 last year to $495; and wholesale and retail increased 7.2 percent from $224 in June 1980 to $241 in June 1981.

Inflation and taxes took their toll, with spendable earnings held to a growth of two percent. As a result, more family members are hunting jobs.

The over-16 population in Illinois increased by 60,000 in the past year, and the number of people either looking for jobs or working increased by 110,000.

With mixed economic news nationally and the Illinois economy still dragging, there is this heartening note, Burris commented. "The Illinois unemployment rate dropped to 7.5 percent in July, down from nine percent in March."

Safety inspections for all ambulances

Legislation introducing a series of tougher registration and operation standards for ambulances and medical transport vehicles was signed into law Tuesday by Governor James R. Thompson.

"The public's safety is something that should never be taken for granted. Every precaution must be taken to ensure that safe, comprehensive and efficient emergency medical treatment is available for those who need it," Thompson said.

"Secretary of State Jim Edgar and the bill's sponsors in the legislature should be commended for their efforts to win its approval in the General Assembly."

Senate Bill 401 was called for by Edgar after a Chicago investigation revealed that safety regulations in ambulances were being violated on a widespread scale.

"As I said when this was first proposed, it makes no sense to require pickup trucks carrying hogs to market to pass two safety inspections a year while ambulances and other emergency vehicles are ignored," Secretary Edgar said this week.

"The new law will ensure that ambulances and other emergency medical vehicles carrying the sick and injured at the most critical times of their lives won't be operating with bad brakes, bald tires or sloppy steering.

"No vehicle should be operating on our streets and highways in poor mechanical condition, and it is especially important that ambulances and med-cars—and similar vehicles that regularly 'run hot,' also run safe."

"The measure signed by the governor makes various changes in the Vehicle Code as well as:

—Gives the secretary of state power to refuse registration of ambulances and medical transport vehicles if proof of $100,000 liability insurance cannot be shown. Previously, the secretary of state's financial responsibility required was $50,000.

—Requires safety inspections and safety certificates for ambulances every six months. Inspections will be conducted at Department of Transportation inspection stations.

—Exempts medical carriers from regulation by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Delegates sought for conferences on children

Governor James R. Thompson urged Illinois citizens interested in children's issues Friday to apply as delegates to a regional and state conference on Children's Priorities for the 80's.

Thompson said the Illinois Commission on Children is actively seeking applicants for voting delegate slots for the regional and state conferences.

The Governor has asked the commission to be the coordinating agency for the conference and expand upon the efforts of last year's statewide conference.

The regional conferences will be held in October or November. They include the Northwestern Conference, to be held in La Salle-Peru on Friday, Oct. 23; the Northeastern Conference in Chicago on Friday, Nov. 6; the Central Conference in Decatur on Wednesday, Oct. 28; and the Southern Conference in Carbondale on Monday, Oct. 12.

The Statewide Conference will be held in Chicago on Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 8-9. Delegates will be asked to select by ballot their top 16 priorities from a list of more than 50 issues summarized from the 1980 Report of the Illinois White House Conference on Children.

Prospective delegates should inquire about participating by Sept. 8 by contacting the Illinois Commission on Children, 3 West Old State Capitol Plaza, Room 206, Springfield, Ill. 62701, or calling 1-217-782-7833. Applications are due by September 11.

CRASH WITH POST HURTS 3 IN AUTO

As Cynthia M. Hanaway, 29, 2609 Emzée St., was driving east over the 20th Street railroad crossing at a curve 150 feet east of Missouri Avenue at 10 p.m. Monday, her auto skidded on wet pavement and struck an Illinois Power Co. pole. She and two girls, Jessie Hanaway, eight years old, and Jeanne Hanaway, five, were taken by ambulance for treatment at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The regional conferences will be held in October or November. They include the Northwestern Conference, to be held in La Salle-Peru on

Madison school board

Written report. "Teacher and administrator salaries were found to be comparable with any Madison County school district. Out of 16 Madison County school districts, Madison District 12's salary schedule for teachers and administrators ranks eighth. "It also said that during the last six years have been in line with the cost of living index.

Garrett's letter alleged that Madison students in the high school and middle school score lower on standard achievement tests than the national norm than students from similar school districts.

Bargiel noted, "The committee found that test scores and reading ability at the eighth grade level to be at the national average per the Science Research Association High School Placement Test, which is administered at mid-term. That is the only statistical testing done, except for Title I and Special Education testing, the committee reported.

Garrett charged that the school board is failing to act in a fiscally responsible manner and is "giving away the taxpayers' money." Bargiel read, "The committee found Madison District 12 to be one of the few districts in the state operating in the black due to found fiscal practices and procedures."

It also concluded that the tax rate is the second lowest in the county at $2.80 per $100 assessed valuation and stated that taxpayers "are getting quality education for a minimal tax rate."

It stated that the North Central Accreditation Report for the 1981-82 school year found that many changes have been made in curriculum and praised the curriculum director.

Responding to charges by Garrett that Madison High School graduates lack the "skills to move upward and onward" after graduation, the committee said that of 104 graduates in the class of 1980, 30 percent are now in college, 20 percent are employed in a vocational field, nine percent are employed in other fields, 22 percent were in the military or otherwise not in the regular job market and only 10 percent were looking for work. Ninety percent of that graduating class was polled, Bargiel said.

Another benefit to students pointed out by the committee was free textbooks for students, something few other school districts provide.

In its summary, the committee concluded, "all employees do not produce 100 percent. However, we found most to be hard working, energetic persons, willing to give more than demanded of."

"The committee found some areas in the educational process that were not as strong as we would like (vocational training and social studies), but also found that our staff had already taken steps to strengthen these areas."

"The committee found the board, administrators and faculty to be well informed in all areas of the educational process. At the Sept. 15 meeting, the Organizing Committee and the Farm Alliance will discuss a solution that entire board at they became available at prior meetings.

"The committee feels, as do teachers and administrators, that the sole objective of the district is a quality education. Further, that the success of Madison students is not in spite of the school system, but because of it."

"How else could we have exceptional scholars, West Point candidates, university administrators and faculty without suitable instruction and curriculum?"

"We recognize the need to give the best possible education to every student in the district and have observed great strides in this direction to not only our regular students, but also to our gifted and special education students."

"We find constructive, documented or warranted criticism to be welcomed by the board, administration and faculty. Public debate is a good, often used, method of raising issues, making changes and seeking improvements, but should not take the place of prompt and regular attendance at board meetings where such discussion and debate is a regular occurrence."

"The committee wishes to extend its appreciation to the board, administration and faculty for their cooperation and support. Particularly our teachers and administrators, whose continued efforts make our district one of the finest in the area," it concluded.

The board voted to place the entire report, including the North Central evaluation, on file. Garrett was the only member voting against accepting the report.

Farmers rally

claiming the overcharge.

"As usual, the citizens are being urged to pay for the mistake of Supervisor James Barton and the Board of Review."

Taxpayers should not be forced to "subsidize the ineptness of our assessing officials," said Alan Libbra, an Olive Township farmer and a key figure in the Organizing Committee.

At the Sept. 15 meeting, the Organizing Committee and the Farm Alliance will discuss a solution that does not place the burden of proof upon the taxpayer," Libbra said.

He added, "The Organizing Committee and the Farm Alliance have a history of success in farmland tax battles."

"This year, the two groups wrote and lobbied for passage of the state's new farmland assessment law, signed by Governor James R. Thompson on Aug. 11. Senator Demuzio was the chief sponsor of the law."

Arbitration rejected

pay, benefits and working conditions. From the viewpoint of the elected Board of Education, acceptance of binding arbitration would have removed authority from board members and vested it in an elected individual. He would have borne no responsibility in later years for how well or how badly his verdict had worked.

All seemed agreed that some degree of borrowing was going to result from whatever salary and benefit package was drawn up.

If an arbitrator opted for an extreme amount of debt, taxpayers would have to pay it off—but without much of a voice in the matter. The arbitrator himself would bear none of the burden. If the "third party" decided in favor of this raises, teachers would have had to live with the decision without a further voice until negotiating a future pact.

In addition to the monetary aspect, arbitration could have had an impact on the quality and adequacy of instruction.

Both parties prefer to retain a voice in such matters as these. "Insiders" feel they are better equipped than "outsiders" to define what is "educationally sound."

A "fact finding" approach or possibly the use of some sort of "blue-ribbon" study panel also received at least fleeting consideration in Community Unit School District Nine this year.

Now that an agreement has been worked out with teachers for the next two years, attention is focusing on the task of developing agreements with such groups as cafeteria employees, secretaries, custodians, painters, laborers, teamsters and carpenters.

School maintenance staff personnel who are members of the construction trades can work throughout the year, so they usually agree to accept a percentage of the going wage that is paid to outdoor tradesmen who lose work during unfavorable weather.

"Fringe benefits and pay hikes accorded teachers sometimes provide a partial offset for other employee negotiations. A complicating factor this fall is that stringent efforts are being made to reduce annual financial deficits in the hot lunch program.

With full-time classes in operation since Thursday, Sept. 3, Superintendent of Schools Bobby J. Davis has welcomed back 9,655 students. The enrollment has been gradually climbing this week as more families returned from late-summer vacation trips, and the total is expected to approach 10,000.

Supt. Davis said in his annual start-of-school message to staff members that "the rights and sounds" of students starting out a new year have renewed my enthusiasm and anticipation for our 1981-82 term.

"The delay in starting school was mutually disappointing, but is now behind us. We recognize the conscientious efforts of the negotiating teams and appreciate their endless hours of dedication in successfully resolving the contract."

"By beginning classes now, we will satisfy the required number of attendance days without affecting the adopted calendar, unless school is closed due to inclement weather or any other emergency."

"For each day this occurs, one day will be deducted from the Easter holiday. Keep your fingers crossed that this will not be necessary, but you may want to keep this possibility in mind as you make future plans."

"The American Federation of Teachers met to rally the new contract, and the teachers were overwhelmingly in favor. According to the new salary schedules, teachers will receive a 10 percent increase in pay during the 1981-82 school year, and a 9.25 percent hike in pay for 1982-83."

"Insurance benefits that have been increased include major medical insurance, hospital insurance, non-scheduled diagnostic (outpatient) insurance, and term life insurance."

"In the future, honorably dismissed teachers or teachers who are laid off after providing three years of continuous service will be given one month's insurance coverage for each year of service, with a maximum not to exceed 12 years' credit."

"Teachers who take an early retirement will be entitled to a paid-up policy, just as though they were still teaching, until they reach the age of 65," Supt. Davis concluded.

TV to the extent that this benefit encourages early retirements, it will reduce the number of teachers who otherwise must receive economy-related honorable dismissals in the spring of 1982.

With up to 70 percent of the 1982-83 faculty potentially at the top bracket of the salary schedule, for 14 of more years of service, retirements that permit hiring of younger teachers could help limit payroll costs.

Would an arbitrator have proposed this kind of a provision in the teacher agreement at this time? Board members and teachers will never know, because no "third party" was appointed.

George Schnyder

Fast-moving events this week have raised the prospect of a takeover of this metropolitan area's bus system by a proposed new transit district to be formed by the City of St. Louis and St. Louis County.

St. Louis County officials over the Illinois interests. Through the Bi-State Development Agency, Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties have shared bus system ownership and management with St. Louis and several Missouri counties.

He headed toward Washington, D.C., yesterday to confer with urban mass transit officials over the continuation of federal financial aid to any new district. St. Louis Mayor Vincent Schoenfeld said he had tried unsuccessfully to contact East St. Louis Mayor Carl Officer about the takeover plan.

Other officials pointed out that Officer could not speak for the entire Illinois portion of the bi-state area.

St. Louis and St. Louis County have sought to bring a showdown by announcing plans to halt their half-percent sales tax to fund the Bi-State. They called for a sharp reduction in the agency's administrative costs.

In voting Tuesday afternoon, Missourians on the agency board to fire Bi-State's administrator, Charles Houghton.

Illinoisans on the board indicated they were willing to let Houghton go, but dismissed William Wilson, transit manager, one of the three managers who report to Houghton. Not involved in the dispute are the development manager and Arch-port/airport manager.

Houghton and Wilson have been rivals for supremacy and each favored trimming some of the other's staff. With Missourians showing support for Wilson, an impasse developed late Tuesday.

Taking into account that most of the sales tax funds used for transit were about to end, Bi-State commissioners then voted 7-1 to offer the bus system to St. Louis and St. Louis County, setting an Oct. 1 deadline.

Mayor Schoenfeld, who seeks to gain a delay in that deadline, said he proposes to pay $1 for the transit system, since it would remain under public ownership. All new bus board members would be appointed directly by Schoenfeld and St. Louis County Executive Gene McNary, the mayor said.

Congressman Melvin Price of this district said yesterday he would object to the takeover if it hampered bus service to Illinoisans. Bi-State was formed under federal authority through a compact between Illinois and Missouri.

The agency itself would continue but would have fewer responsibilities. Illinois Governor James R. Thompson also indicated he might oppose a change in bus ownership unless Illinois interests are protected.

The St. Louis Mayor said Illinois bus service would be unaffected and that the new entity could enter into contracts with the three Illinois counties' bus districts, which channel transit funds raised through sales taxes.

Carl Mathias of Granite City, a Bi-State commissioner, indicated disappointment that the Houghton-Wilson feud had not been resolved, and said both might have to be dismissed.

He said Wednesday that there was adequate protection of Illinois interests. He would vote against transfer of the bus system. Major decisions require at least three favorable votes from each state. Five commissioners are named by the Illinois governor and five are appointed by the Missouri governor.

St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello suggested yesterday that a new Missouri-Illinois agency be formed.

Arthur Teale of the Urban Mass Transit Administration said his group would not try to block any takeover.

In its effort to appease St. Louis and St. Louis County officials, the Bi-State board offered Tuesday to dismiss 72 persons as an economy move aimed at lowering administrative costs by $2 million.

However, the city and county did not respond to the idea because they did not view it as a firm commitment.

Donald Willis

Funeral services for Donald B. Willis, 59, of 2886 Idaho Ave., will be held Saturday, Sept. 12, at the Bowen-Donaldson Funeral Home in Tifton, Ga., where burial will be in the Oak Ridge Cemetery at Tifton.

Mr. Willis was pronounced dead at 12:40 p.m. Monday, Sept. 7, 1981, at Wood River Township Hospital, where he was taken after collapsing at a picnic in South Roxana.

He had been under a physician's care for a heart ailment.

Mr. Willis was employed as a burner at Granite City Steel. He was a World War II Army veteran and a member of VFW Post 100.

He was born in Tifton and had resided here the past 32 years.

Among the survivors are his wife, Mrs. Shirley O. (Angie) Willis; one daughter, Mrs. John (Fonna) Spanberger of Albany, Ga.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Artie (Iviva) Willis of Tifton; a brother, W. Neal Willis of Tifton; one sister, Mrs. Merle (Jean) Jackson of Lawrence, Kan.; and three grandchildren.

Friends called Wednesday at Lahey Funeral Home, 501 Madison Ave., Madison.

A white outboard boat motor was stolen from a 16-foot boat on a trailer in a driveway at 2869 Madison Ave. Tuesday night, authorities were notified by Mike Greaves, 100 Briarhaven.

Weber says gambling cases must be handled individually

Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber says he has not, as some have perceived, changed his policy on gambling and games of chance. Rather, he says he has had to look at each individual case as it comes before him.

Weber's election campaign included promises that he would allow certain "gambling" when it benefited charities. He says he hasn't reneged on those promises.

After he was first elected, he said, the case of the Behlhoi Jaycees' mouse stand came up. The Jaycees set up a booth at the homecoming and sold chances for 25 cents each to guess which hole the mouse would run into when released.

"I don't think that's gambling," Weber said in a telephone interview. "The people know that 25 cents is a contribution."

Then, Weber said, came up the case involving the Granite City Eagles Club. That had slot machines with proceeds going to charitable causes.

Weber said he had to stop the operation for two reasons: First, it was a "standing enterprise," something that ran all year, rather than just once.

Second, because the machines are costly to set up, "somebody in professional gambling is making money," he said.

"I really haven't changed anything. It's just that people interpret it that way," Weber said. "I look at it on a case-by-case basis, and I am trying to lay down general guidelines."

Those general guidelines include four major points: First, the people running the game must donate their time entirely without compensation. They must also be members of the organization sponsoring the game.

Second, every penny of the money has to go to charity.

Third, the limit on the bet should be 25 cents. Fifty cents, he said, is very questionable, and $1 per chance is gambling. "People can lose a lot of money at $1 per chance," he said.

Fourth, the people running the game should police the area themselves.

News notes

The Board of Review has requested $25,000 in budget transfers by the end of September due to the cost of handling numerous Madison County property assessment hearings. Its 1981 budget for $49,661. Hearings were completed May 24, two days before the new year's work began—but they may be finished the next time by Dec. 31 or Jan. 15, the review board says.

Air standards in the central and eastern areas of Madison County will not be altered to allow more sulfur dioxide, Richard Carlson says. He is the Illinois governor's assistant for energy and natural resources. Elected officials overwhelmingly indicated their opposition to proposed revamping of the standards. No change was suggested for Dec. 31 or Jan. 15, the review board says.

The Upper Mississippi River Basin Commission is expected to recommend construction of a second new Alton river lock.

Four persons were hurt at 11 p.m. Saturday when the front of the southbound pickup truck of Michael Fraser, 31, St. Peter's, Mo., hit the rear of the auto of Frances Arcolano, 25, of 2822 Iowa St., who had halted for a Maryville Road stoplight at Pontoon Road.

Taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center were Janice Fraser, 27, St. Peter's, and three passengers in the car, Cheryl Arcolano, 23, and Nicholas Arcolano, two years old, both of 2822 Iowa, and Marian Kelly, 49, of 2217 Cardinal. The latter was transferred to Firdin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, and released Wednesday.

WEAPON CHARGES—Kenneth E. Richter, 36, of 2324 Orville Ave. was charged by Granite City police today with unlawful use of a weapon and having no firearm owner identification card. They alleged he had a loaded 12 gauge shotgun in a pickup truck, and also booked him on an earlier warrant for weapon use.

MARGE engages consultants

Two financial consultants from New York City have been engaged by the St. Louis Metro Area Rail Gateway Enterprise (MARGE) to prepare a plan for participation by the railroads in the proposed rail relocation project for this area, it was announced at a press conference Tuesday in the MARGE office in East St. Louis.

MARGE hopes to consolidate rail yards throughout the metropolitan region into either two or three, major and efficient switching yards, including an expanded Madison Yard, and to move all trailer on flatcar (piggyback) facilities into one centralized yard south of Venice.

New overpasses, a relocation of Route 3 and other portions of the project could have major effects on the Quad-City area.

Congress has given the project a high priority for funding and will buy $50 million in preference shares from the railroads to help finance the program, if necessary legislation is adopted this fall.

The $50 million will not cover all of the costs of the project, so the financial consultants have been hired to put together an acceptable plan for railroad investment into the rail relocation project, according to Thomas P. Walsh, executive director of MARGE. Without the package, work not covered by the preference share funding would not be done and the project would be impossible to complete, he indicated.

A public hearing on the MARGE plan and the draft environmental impact statement was held last night and a second hearing was to be held this afternoon in the MARGE office in East St. Louis.

The period of public review of the draft environmental impact statement ends Sept. 21, after which the final environmental impact statement will be released.

National Steel buys 2 firms

National Steel Corporation, owner of Granite City Steel, acquired two failing thrift institutions this week.

West Side Federal Savings & Loan Association of New York City and Washington Savings & Loan Association of Miami, two of the biggest in the nation, were absorbed by Citizens Savings & Loan Association of San Francisco.

cisco, a subsidiary of National Steel's United Financial Corporation.

About $10 million a month in subsidies will be provided by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp., which insures deposits of up to $100,000.

The merger is the largest in S&L history and creates the fourth biggest S&L in the United States.

Citizens Savings had been the nation's 18th largest with $3 billion in assets. West Side was 20th and Washington was 27th.

Citizens now has $6.8 billion in assets and 136 offices in California, New York and Florida. The Florida and New York units will be operated under their own names as divisions of Citizens.

The federal insurance corporation agreed to cover any losses on the mortgage portfolios of the two absorbed S&Ls for the next ten years.

National Steel's only expense in acquiring them is $75 million in new capital that it will funnel into the combined institution in three equal annual installments, the first due in September 1982.

Anthony M. Frank, chairman of Citizens, said the merger would save $10 million due to the closing of old, low-rate mortgages. He described the firms as otherwise "well-managed, with no other investment losses."

He and National Steel Chairman and President Howard M. Love, former Granite City Steel Division president, cited the prospect of future profit.

Love called the merger "a unique opportunity to grow," and Frank said it is "the first step toward being a national association."

Citizens now has offices in states with 23 percent of the nation's population and 30 percent of America's economic activity.

Richard Pratt, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said the merger terms are "very appropriate and very economical," costing $750 million less than liquidation.

William B. O'Connell, executive vice-president of the U. S. League of Savings Association, said the acquisition as an initial step toward "consolidation and centralization" of the U. S. banking system on an interstate basis.

State orders constant level for Horseshoe

By GARY SCHNEIDER of the Press-Record

The Metro East Sanitary District has been ordered to maintain a constant water level of Horseshoe Lake at the top of the overflow spillway, unless there is a need to lower it temporarily for drainage or wildlife management purposes, Donald R. Vonnahme, deputy director of the Division of Water Resources of the Illinois Transportation, said last week.

Vonnahme ordered that the lake be maintained at 403.7 feet (above sea level) at all times, unless the sanitary district feels it is necessary to lower the lake at times for flood control purposes or the Department of Conservation, with the concurrence of the sanitary district, wishes the level lowered for fish and wildlife management purposes, such as to plant culverts in the lake.

Vonnahme said the order was in response to "a number of complaints" about the low level of the lake recently.

The wheel which is used to manually lower and raise the gates at the spillway was put in the possession of Frank Mehelic, highway superintendent of Nameoki Township, and the lake level was lowered, critics charge, saying that they believe the fish population was endangered and the lake was too low for boats or duck hunters to use it.

Mehelic agrees he has the controls to the lake, but said he only brought the lake to an acceptable level to adequately drain Nameoki Township in times of heavy rains.

Walter "Shang" Greathouse, president of the sanitary district's board of trustees, said he felt he was caught between two feuding parties.

Mehelic and landowner Bill Nichols — and sought assistance from the Division of Water Resources in determining what the level of the lake should be.

Vonnahme, a professional engineer, responded that he believes the gates at the overflow structure should be kept closed at all times, which should keep the lake level at 403.7 feet.

The effect of two 36-inch culverts at the southwest tip of the lake, near Canteen Lake, on the level of the lake is yet to be determined and will be the subject of a field investigation to be conducted tomorrow by Case Greathouse with the Division of Water Resources. Officials of the sanitary district and the Division of Conservation have been invited to accompany Gringles on the inspection, Vonnahme said.

Critics of Mehelic allege that he is the one responsible for having the culverts on the 36-inch culverts broken several times, allowing the lake to drain. Mehelic contends that he has only broken the sealed culverts open one time, and that was during a potential flooding situation in the township and was done with Greathouse's permission.

Vonnahme said in his letter that if it is determined that the two 36-inch culverts affect the level of the lake, they should be kept sealed. "If the culverts...have no effect on the level of Horseshoe Lake, then MSD may operate them in any manner the district deems appropriate," the letter said.

"Hopefully, with the reaffirmation of the operating procedure for structure 'A' (the overflow spillway) and a determination of how structure 'B' (the 36-inch culverts) must be operated, complaints concerning the level of Horseshoe Lake will cease," Vonnahme told Greathouse in the letter.

Petrillo distributes Granite City taxes
City Treasurer Nick Petrillo announced Wednesday he has made the first distribution of tax collections for Granite City Township with the largest amount, $174,922 going to Granite City School District.

Petrillo said payments have gone well thus far, but some taxpayers have not yet received their bills.

He said distribution to the city of Granite City amounted to $82,000, and that Madison County received $32,000.

Taxes received by the Metro-East Sanitary District totaled $20,625, while Granite City Township received $17,275.

Other districts receiving taxes from the township collection included the Granite City Park District, $11,986, and Belleville Area College, $10,170.

Petrillo said Granite City taxpayers have until Sept. 15 to pay first installment taxes without the addition of a 1 percent penalty.

While an officer restrained all vehicles apparently is a scene from the past.

With a little patience and respect shown by both students and drivers for the right-of-way rules of the road, the new signal lights can prove beneficial to everyone, observers believe.

Rewards for leads or arson in Illinois

Governor James R. Thompson on Tuesday presented monetary awards to three people who provided investigators with information that led to the arrest and conviction of three suspected arsonists.

"Let these awards be a warning to arsonists. People are not willing to stand by and do nothing while those who seek to destroy innocent people's lives 'escape justice,'" the governor said. "Arson is something that simply will not be tolerated in Illinois."

Thompson announced formation of the Illinois Arson Award Program on Feb. 19 in an effort to combat arson in Illinois. Tuesday's awards, the first to be presented, total $2,000.

Award recipients were: Neveer Dixon of St. Louis—$1,000. While driving through East St. Louis, Dixon saw a man hurl a burning object into a multi-family dwelling. Dixon followed the suspect to an all-night market and assisted the security guard there in apprehending the suspect.

The suspect was arrested and later pleaded guilty to arson. Sentencing is pending. Robert Wanak of Zion—$500. Wanak saw two suspects running from the scene of a house explosion. Their clothes were on fire. After he helped them put out the fire, he saw them drive off. He saw them drive off. Manak reported the license number and a description of the vehicle to police. Information that led to the arrest and conviction of one of the suspects.

Nominations for possible award recipients can be submitted to the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement, Arson Control Program, Room 300, Armory Building, Springfield, Ill. 62706.

Lottery funds to university

Governor James R. Thompson has signed legislation allowing proceeds from a state lottery game to go to the University of Illinois Athletic Association.

"This measure will provide funding from the State Lottery for the University of Illinois athletic programs," the governor said. "I think it also will provide university supporters with the opportunity to back the overall athletic programs of our state's only public land grant university."

Under the measure, proceeds from a lottery game would go to the University of Illinois Athletic Association. However, the Lottery Control Board would retain control over all decisions regarding the game.

Senate Bill 1108 also deletes the requirement that 40 percent of lottery proceeds be automatically transferred to the General Revenue Fund. It also gives the Department of Revenue the power to impose a penalty payment on delinquent lottery agents.

7 chosen as outstanding young men

The board of advisors for the Outstanding Young Men of America awards program announced today that seven Quad-City area young men have been selected for inclusion in the 1981 edition of the award book.

Those men listed were selected from nominations received from senators, congressmen, governors, mayors, state legislators, university and college presidents and deans as well as civic groups, including the United States Jaycees.

A spokesman said, "In every community there are young men working diligently to make their cities, as well as their country, better places in which to live."

These men, having distinguished themselves in one or more fields of endeavor, are outstanding and deserve to be recognized for their achievements.

"The criteria for selection include a man's voluntary service to his community, professional leadership, academic achievement, business advancement, cultural accomplishments and civic and political participation."

The men listed, along with fellow young men throughout North America, will be featured in the next annual award publication.

The Quad-Cityans and their current addresses are: MARK HARRISON REINHARDT, Rt. 1, Box 353 A, Murray, Ky. 42071.

THOMAS STEPHEN KRIESHOK, 38 University Terrace, Columbia, Mo. 65201.

MICHAEL JOSEPH LOFTUS, 100 Briarhaven, Apt. 310, Granite City, RICKY ALLEN EVERAGE, 819 S. Prairie Drive, Bethalto 62809.

NATHANIEL BOYD, 51 Circle Drive, Venice, CHARLES MICHAEL COOK, PSC Box 55669, Mather Air Force Base, Calif. 95655.

STEPHEN GREGORY HAGGARD, 2321 Gary Ave., Granite City.

Floats, marchers, union leaders and bands

Hundreds of people participated and hundreds more lined Madison Avenue Monday morning for the first Labor Day parade in the Quad-Cities since 1957. Various union locals marched in the parade, some with more than 100 members participating. Colorful floats, marching bands from Granite City high schools North and South, the Ainad Oriental Band and other Shriner mobile units were featured throughout the parade as were a color guard provided by the Granite City Legion Post 113 and the Venice-Madison Legion Post 307 "duck," an amphibious WW II vehicle.

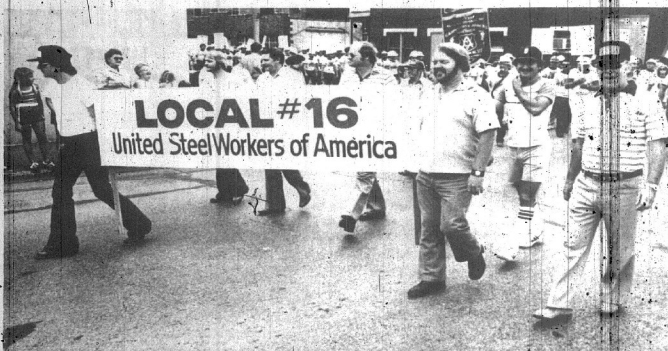

Clockwise from below: Illinois AFL-CIO President Robert G. Gibson, grand marshal of the parade; Southwestern Area Council of the Illinois Federation of Teachers; the International Typographical Union, St. Louis Local 8, Press-Record Chapel; Local 16 of the United Steelworkers of America; Painters Local 120; United Steelworkers of America Local 67; and the Venice-Madison Legion Post 307 "duck."

Program on evergreens
A program on both the large and dwarf species of evergreens especially those that bear cones, was presented by Mrs. C. E. Eads at a meeting of the Garden Study Club, last week.
Mrs. Norma Crenshaw entertained the club at her home and served a dessert course to precede the business segment.
The club collect was given in union and each one answered roll call with a short statement on their favorite evergreen.
A basket of gypsy hybrid mangoes was exhibited by Mrs. Clara Winter with green and purple basil which was later distributed to the members.
After the session they toured the hostess's greenhouse and outside gardens.
Attending were Mesdames Lucille Broyles, Margaret Huesman, Mary Stomum, Cheri Petrillo, Joann Edwards and those named.

County Jr. Miss emcee

Shardol Yount of Granite City has accepted an invitation to serve as master-of-ceremonies at the 1982 Northern Madison County Junior Miss Pageant, scheduled at 7 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 26, at Hawthay Hall on the campus of Lewis and Clark Community College, Godfrey.

Mrs. Yount, an established teacher and judge of baton twirling and talent, has taught more than 500 boys and girls from the Illinois metropolitan area during the past 11 years.

Many of her students were world, national and state champions, who later became teachers, judges and contest directors.

Mrs. Yount directed and coordinated the largest Junior Miss program ever held in Granite City and last year won runner-up honors for presenting the "best" Junior Miss program in the state.

In addition, she sponsors two baton contests and two talent contests each year and is active in the National Bat Twirling Association, National Twirling Teachers Association and Amvets Post 51 Auxiliary.

The local woman is president-elect of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club, in which she also has served as program, bylaws and yearbook chairman.

She was the first place winner in last year's BPW Speak-Off contests at both the local and district levels. Mrs. Yount is a member of Grace Baptist Church, where she is an adult Sunday school teacher. She also has taken nurse training and was employed as a machine operator for an advertising company for more than 16 years.

She currently owns and operates Shardol Yount School of Baton, 4921 Morrison Road.

Mrs. Yount and her husband, Ray, are the parents of four children and grandparents of three youngsters. Her children have won over 2,000 trophies in various competitions.

Further information about the county Junior Miss Pageant may be obtained by calling 1-377-9086.

Names campaign staff head

Governor James R. Thompson has named Robert Kjellander Jr. of Springfield to head the campaign staff for the governor's re-election effort.

"We're fortunate to have someone of Bob's background and experience on the campaign team," Thompson said. "Bob has an excellent working relationship with people in politics and knows the issues that concern the people of Illinois."

Kjellander, 33, takes over the campaign post effectively Tuesday. He has been Director of the Governor's Office of Legislative Affairs since December 15, 1980.

Prior to that, Kjellander served from 1978 as Director of the Governor's Office of Personnel. From 1977 to 1978, he was the Governor's Liaison to the Illinois State Senate.

He also was assistant director of Governmental Affairs for the Illinois State Medical Society from 1974-1977; public affairs assistant for the Illinois State Medical Society from 1973-1974; and executive director of the Illinois Young Voters for the President in 1972.

Kjellander earned a master's degree in history and a bachelor's degree in political science at the University of Illinois. He also was named one of 100 outstanding seniors at the University of Illinois in 1970 and an Outstanding Young Man of America in 1973.

He is married and has a son.

ILEITIS AND CROHN SELF-HELP GROUP

Persons interested in forming a local self-help group of individuals interested in ileitis and Crohn's disease are being urged to attend an organizational meeting Tuesday, Sept. 15, at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held at 415 Chapel Drive in Collinsville. For further information, Quad-Cityans may telephone 345-8289 or 345-0599.

Agronomy field day is scheduled Sept. 18

By RONALDE COHNWELL
U of I Extension
Adviser

The Brownstown Agronomy Field Day is scheduled for Friday, Sept. 18, at 8:30 a.m.

The Brownstown Agronomy Field is located near Brownstown, Ill. This year's tour will cover crop diseases, tillage systems, insect problems, corn herbicides, soybean herbicides, irrigation, fertility, forages and soybean varieties.

Several University of Illinois specialists will be involved in the program. The wagon tours will last about 2½ hours. The tours will be held rain or shine.

I recently received a productivity rating index of wheat varieties for Southern Illinois. This index was developed using data from all the county wheat test plots in Southern Illinois.

The top 4 varieties in the index include IL 72, Rosen, McNair 1003, Coker 747, Tyler, Pike, Hart and Coker 79.

Farmers can obtain a copy of the wheat variety index by contacting the Extension office.

Ear and kernel rots may be a problem this year because of the above normal rainfall. Ears that have been damaged by birds and insects or ears that are touching the ground due to lodging are more prone to ear rots. Ears well covered by husks and maturing in a downward position usually have less rot.

Ear and kernel rots are caused by a number of fungi commonly active during periods of moist weather conditions. These fungi overwinter in crop residues in or on the soil surface or in stored grain. Continuous corn production in a field tends to increase problems of ear and kernel rots.

Growers can reduce ear and kernel rot problems in the future by using resistant varieties that also are full season adapted hybrids with resistance to stalk rots and leaf blight. Combining this with balanced soil fertility, control of insects, timely harvesting at the proper moisture level and storing grain at recommended moisture levels can bring about good control of these problems.

As fall approaches and the nights turn cool, a variety of insects will begin to shelter inside the home. The more common pests include ants, crickets, "boxelder bugs," millipedes, centipedes and spiders.

You can take steps to control these insect problems. Start by checking windows and doors to see that they seal tightly. Make sure other entry ways such as areas around water pipes and dryer vents are properly sealed and caulked.

The second step in control is to apply a spray of 0.5 percent diazinon to the foundation of house. Spray to the point of runoff completely around the house, paying special attention to steps, door thresholds and crawlspaces, vents or basement windows. Provide a complete barrier so that crawling insects trying to enter the home will have to contact the insecticide.

RENAMED PROVINCIAL

YMCA course in theater

Beginning Saturday, Sept. 12, the Granite City YMCA will offer a course in improvisational acting and theater games. The course will be offered for eight weeks from 2 to 4 p.m.

The course will be taught by Dan McGee, McGee, who graduated from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, said that the purpose of the class is "to develop more interest in theater in the area, and to help those who are interested in being more relaxed and responsive on stage."

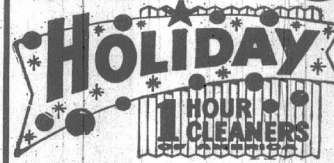

One of the eventual goals of the course will be to do improvisational performances at local nursing homes and hospitals. Persons interested in taking the course should be at the YMCA at 2 p.m. on Saturday. A $5 registration fee is charged for the course. Loose, casual clothing is suggested for those participating. For any further information, persons may call 931-2853 or the YMCA.

Highlight problems of gifted children at Montreal meeting

Anita Eftimoff, Granite City special education resource teacher, has returned from the International Gifted Education Conference held in Montreal, Canada, where she presented an original research paper, "The Special Education Resource Room Delivery Model for Gifted Education," and also served as a group leader at a round table session on "Writing the Individual Education Program."

In her paper, Mrs. Eftimoff advocated the use of the Granite City special education system as a resource room as a means for program development with a team teaching situation that incorporates the learning center staffs.

The Fourth World Conference on Gifted and Talented Children has just ended in Montreal, Canada. The earlier conferences were held in London, San Francisco and Jerusalem.

Generally agreed to be most successful, this conference attracted about 1,200 people from 40 countries. During its four days of meetings 389 papers were presented by experts from 26 countries from Argentina to Russia.

In addition to the U.S. and Canada, the countries with major representation were Australia, France, Great Britain, Israel, South Africa and West Germany. They included government officials, university, college and school teachers, parents and some children, all concerned with educating those with unusual special gifts and talents.

A child may show such a gift or talent from a very early age and may suffer severe frustrations if there is no opportunity for proper development. One of the problems highlighted at the conference was the increasing number of gifted children appearing among those in trouble with the law. This is not only a problem in itself but the gifted often have the ability to become the leaders in delinquency, Mrs. Eftimoff said.

The conference gave an opportunity for people in many different circumstances and with many different attitudes to exchange experiences. Dr. Henry Coker of Nigeria highlighted the problems of gifted children in developing countries where enormous resources have to be committed to establishing a general education service at an acceptable level.

On the other hand, Dr. Luis Machado, Venezuelan Minister of State for the Development of Human Intelligence, described a unique experience. Although a separate Ministry of Education, Science and Culture, Dr. Machado is responsible for a program already started to supplement normal educational projects by teaching people to think—not only in the schools, but also in factories and stores and through professional organizations.

There were many other papers presenting a national overview of the education of the gifted children in countries as different as China and Argentina, the USSR and Great Britain.

Other keynote speakers included Dr. Burton J. White of the Center for Parent Education in Massachusetts and "The origins of competence in children" and the controversial Dr. Albert Jacquard of the Paris Institute of Demographic Studies. Speaking as a geneticist, he suggested that man is the only animal able to adapt both his environment and himself, that in a sense, he makes himself and the role of society is to offer education which will enable people eventually to manufacture themselves—to make themselves gifted.

Music, poetry and all the creative as well as the performing arts received special attention and were highlighted by a concert given halfway through the conference at McGill University's Pollack Concert Hall. Program development, curriculum, teacher training and research were more professionally oriented. Futurist E. Joseph, a staff scientist with the Sperry Univac Corporation; Dr. E. de Bono, a Cambridge University expert on lateral thinking; and Laura van Arragon, an Ontario parent who brought up her large family without help of schools, were three of the different personalities who contributed.

Those attending the conference say that they have gained much in knowledge and experience not only from the actual presentations, but particularly through the opportunities to meet people with such varied backgrounds. Mrs. Eftimoff said.

Open meeting law revised.

Governor James R. Thompson has signed legislation that revises the state's 24-year-old Open Meeting Act.

"Nearly everyone agrees that the current law is too vague in many ways," the governor said. "Attorney General Tyrone B. Fisher and the sponsors have worked long and hard to make significant changes in the law and to clarify other portions of it. This measure will help ensure that the news media and the public have access to public business and that the doors to government are open when they should be."

The measure establishes a new definition of meeting as any gathering of a majority of a quorum of the members of a public body held for the purpose of discussing public business.

House Bill 411 also provides that meetings to discuss pending or imminent litigation may be held behind closed doors. In addition, it allows closed meetings in certain other instances but holds that no final action may be taken at a closed meeting. Public notice of all meetings, whether they are open or closed, must be given.

The legislation also requires that minutes be kept of all meetings and it provides procedures for the release of those minutes to the public.

Persons other than the news media are allowed to record proceedings of open meetings under the bill. The public also may bring a civil action in situations in which provisions of the act have not been met.

The measure takes effect Jan. 1, 1982.

The sponsors of the bill were Representative Jim Reilly of Jacksonville and Senator Prescott Bloom of Peoria and Terry Bruce of Olney.

The Story of Jesus told and sung for you by Peter — The Witnesses — and the other men and women who knew The Master best.

These first disciples were no different from the men and women who have been following Jesus ever since: plain people, most of them, with jobs, families and responsibilities.

In "The Witness," we hear from Peter, the fisherman who made so many mistakes and yet became an apostle; from his wife, who suddenly discovers who is married to a traveling man; Mary, the mother of Jesus, who shares the secret finding favor with God; James and John, who begin to understand when the Kingdom of God is really all about; their mother, who watches out for the welfare of her boys; and from the tormented Judas as he realizes that he has sold his own soul. We go with these people through the life, death and resurrection of Jesus, and we learn with them how this man's life brought God's salvation to the world.

God bless you and give you joy as you watch and listen to "The Witness."

Elkettes honor past presidents

Past presidents of the Elkettes Club were accorded special honors at a potluck dinner held in the Elk's Rathskeller last week, attended by 110 members and guests.

Each of the honorees received a long stem pink rose and engraved pin from Mrs. Kathryn Worthen, who represented the Exalted Ruler Loren Worthen.

Guests of honor included Karmyn Edmonds, Ella Wade, Helen Bergfield, Ruth Bauer, Helen Todoroff, Lorraine Williams, Bess Weiss, Blanche Leuchter, Marion Willard, Euphie Tarris and Dean Graf.

After the past officers were introduced a president's pin was presented to Mrs. JoAnn Romine, the current Elkettes Club president.

Decorations for the social event were in pink and purple, the colors of the organization.

During the meeting Mrs. Joan Yetter and Mrs. Marilyn Lunford gave a report on the Fabulous Foods cookbook and noted the next issue of the book will be priced at $7.

Guests attending and enrolled as members were Shirley Fountain, Edith Ross, Gerry Marti, Linda Ziolkowski, Crystal Stack, Helen Toncoff, Esther Williams, and Vicky Mertz.

Other guests were Betty Young, Janet Davis, Linda McKeehan, Linda Williams, Cookie Adamitis, Sandy Cook, Pat Brown, Linda Hasse, Mary Weckback, McKeehan, Linda Williams, Jayne Elchsenner, Marie Plase and Shirley Morgan.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. on Oct. 6, the president announced.

50 at family reunion, dinner

About 50 family members and friends attended the second annual reunion of the J. T. Hemingway and Mrs. Oma Johnson family last week, which included a dinner party at the Venice Recreation Center.

The group also gathered the previous day for a picnic in Forest Park, St. Louis.

Both Mrs. Johnson and Hemingway are residents of Madison.

Plans were made by those attending to hold a reunion in two years in Los Angeles, Calif.

Among the family members from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Oliver and friends from Youngstown, Ohio; Mrs. Pearl Hemingway, Gaynor Hemingway and Mrs. Alma Echols and family, all of East St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson and son from Milwaukee, Wis.; and Mrs. Aurelia Downs and family, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Austin and son, all of Ingleswood, Calif.

FIFTH GENERATION of the Walker family is 6-month-old Dustin Murphy held by his great-grandmother, Mrs. M. C. Walker of Madison. Standing from left is Mrs. Della Murphy of Granite City, the grandmother, her son and father of the infant, Bryan Murphy, Granite City, and Mrs. Lorene Lancaster of Ellington, Mo., great-grandmother.

Circle hears Mrs. Sotiroff

A devotional lesson on the topic of "The Bible Creation Story and Grand Canyon" by George W. Wahlin was presented by Mrs. Clara Sotiroff at the monthly meeting of Faith Church of Niedringhaus United Methodist Church.

Members gathered in the home of Mrs. Dora Youngs with Mrs. Beattie Milton serving as co-hosts.

Leader Mrs. Eula Meyers opened the meeting with prayer, and gave a review of the executive meeting.

Dates of interest announced included, a district annual session on Sept. 20 from 2 to 4 p.m. at Christ United Methodist Church, Fairview Heights, featuring the Rev. Blanche Baker, of England.

Also on Oct. 3 from 9:30 to 2 p.m. the annual conference meeting will convene in Lawrenceville, Ill.

Leadership training for all local officers will be held at the church on Nov. 19 with sessions set for 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and another from 7 to 9 p.m., it was noted.

GC Homemakers hears Mrs. Geraldine Bower

An informative lesson, "Middle-Age Transitions," was presented to the Granite City Home Extension Unit by Mrs. Geraldine Bower, associate extension adviser.

She explained that middle age is a time of continued growth and development and much activity, involving physical and emotional changes. "Middle-aged" or mid-life is a time of complex change, new directions, and contradicting definitions, she added.

Chairman Elizabeth Schmidt opened the meeting with the pledge to the flag and the Homemakers' Aim. The hostesses, Toni Lynch, Anna Michels, Madge Ramsey, and Florence Simpson served a dessert course, using a "School Days" theme with "An Apple for the Teacher" centerpiece.

Wilma Owca, unit international chairman, reported that Ruth Wepfer, state chairman had been appointed to the IYDP committee, International Year of the Disabled Person by Gov. James Thompson. She has published a report in the IHF newsletter.

The Furniture Refinishing Workshop, Sept. 29, will be attended by members, Marie Johnson, Toni Lynch, and Laura Travis.

International Day on Oct. 14 will be a bus tour of St. Genevieve, Mo. Members wishing to attend should send their reservations to the Edwardsville office by Sept. 21, it was announced.

A potluck and White Elephant sale will be held at the next meeting at the Naameok United Presbyterian Church at 12 noon on Oct. 6. Members should bring printed recipes of their potluck dishes, which will be sold to those desiring them. A "craft day" will also be held on this date, starting at 10 a.m. For details on craft materials, call Marie Johnson, 878-3957, the chairman noted.

Mary Radick was welcomed as a new member. Others attending were, Alma Beckman, Leona Delaloye, Bessie Grasso, Hulda Griffith, Helen Galt, Helen Hartwig, Carrie Hoffman, Janet Kraus, La Nell Lesseg, Freddy McElroy, Ann Mary, Anne Puro, Helen Parks, Helen Sleska, Irma Taylor, Martha Taylor, Louise Thompson, Mary Ann, and Adele Wasylik.

The meditations of Marcus Aurelius used to be required reading for school-age children. Many ladies kept copies in the same manner they kept copies of the Bible; for a constant source of inspiration. Meditation 23 reads: "All that is harmony for these, O Universe, is in harmony with me as well. Nothing that comes at the right time for thee is too early or too late for me. Everything is fruit to me that thy seasons bring, O Nature. All things come of thee, have their being in thee, and return to thee."

One can often find comfort and words of wisdom in the readings of the philosophers of old. At MERCER, THOMAS AND SEDLACK MORTUARIES we attempt to bring this same comfort and understanding to the forefront when it is needed at the current moment. Through our professional training and experience and our understanding of human nature, our staff offers the services and personal support needed and appreciated by those in mourning. In your hour of need, let us offer you dignity, comfort and professionalism.

Review fiesta plans

Plans for the Mexican Honorary Commission's traditional fall fiesta, scheduled at 6 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 19, were reviewed at last week's meeting of the MHC Auxiliary.

The group met in the MHC Hall, 1801 Spruce St. Twenty-eight members were present and Mrs. Lisa Fensterman presided.

Additional kitchen workers are needed for the fiesta and volunteers may contact Linda Garcia, kitchen chairman to offer their services.

Entertainment will start at 8 p.m. Sept. 19, with a variety show, featuring the traditional Mexican Hat Dance.

Dancing to the music of the Los Amigos Band will follow. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Preliminary plans also were discussed for the annual Christmas party, set Saturday, Dec. 12.

The event will include a dinner at 2 p.m., a visit by Santa at 4:30 p.m., breaking of the pinatas at 5 p.m., and dancing to Johnny Crawford.

Mrs. Toni Short volunteered to decorate the hall.

for the party. Mrs. Fensterman advised a charge will be made for those attending who are not MHC members.

"Several future fundraising activities were explored, led by Mrs. Vicki Stith, ways and means chairman, and sponsoring an "Enchilada Night" at the MHC Hall was proposed. The group voted to recommend the suggestion to the commission's board of directors.

After the business session, a social hour was held which included a demonstration by Mrs. Mary Bridick on the art of making potato dumplings. Refreshments were served and Mrs. Lily Valencia was awarded a prize.

Riddle removed from BAC ballot

The name of former Madison superintendent of schools Fred Riddle of Collinsville has been ordered removed from the Belleville Area College Nov. 3 ballot for trustees by a panel of eight circuit judges and a state's attorney in St. Clair County.

Riddle was among 10 candidates who had filed for three BAC trustee seats to be decided in the election. Other candidates include Esther Vasloff of Granite City, a retired special education teacher. Her petitions also were challenged, but the panel overruled the objections and upheld her candidacy.

Two faculty members, leaders of the campus chapter of the American Association of University Professors, challenged the petitions of four of the 10 candidates, contending that some signatures were illegible and some had questionable addresses. The objections were filed by AAUP President Roger Christick and by Donald Libby, chairman of the teachers' negotiating team.

One of the candidates whose petitions were challenged, former Belleville city treasurer Homer Liebig, swore to try to eliminate the two men and "this foolishness" from the faculty of BAC, if elected.

The challenge to his petitions was withdrawn just before the hearing when the signatures were found to match voter registration records.

The objection to the candidacy of Donald Jerome of Belleville also was withdrawn prior to the hearing. Riddle was the only one whose name has been ordered withdrawn from the ballot. The panel found an insufficient number of valid signatures.

The other nine candidates will compete for three trustee seats, those of John Becker of St. Louis, Elizabeth Jenner of Mascoutah and Edward J. Mayley of Belleville. Mrs. Jenner is the only one who is seeking reelection.

Other candidates are Mrs. Vasloff; J. C. McEwen, Homer Liebig, Everett Sakosko, Ralph Kaesler and Wayne Reynolds, all of Belleville; Kenneth Fisk of Mascoutah and Randall Bastian of Lebanon. Among the holdover trustees is Avery Schermer of Granite City.

Fines distributed

Fines totaling $7,825 have been distributed to Quad-City area government entities as a part of $139,650 in August court fines which have been released by the office of William V. "Butch" Portell, Circuit Clerk.

Receives LPN pin of St. Mary

Mrs. Connie Marie Lohman graduated from St. Mary Medical Center's School of Nursing and received a licensed practical nurse diploma and pin Sept. 3 in ceremonies at the center's chapel in Richmond Heights, Mo.

She has accepted a position at St. Mary Medical Center and also is planning to continue her training toward a registered nurse's degree.

Mrs. Lohman and her husband, Richard, and their two children, Eric, 7, and Contrina, 2½ years, reside at 2034 Milan St., Madison. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McDowell of Madison and a 1973 graduate of Madison High School.

PAINTING STOLEN. Jack Friedman, owner of Friedman's Hardware, Madison, and an artist of some note, accidentally left one of his paintings in his car parked by the store. Shortly after, remembering leaving the painting by the auto, he went back outside for it and found it was gone. The painting was in a wood gold colored frame 16 x 20 inches and valued at $200.

Rift over firing at sanitary district evolves in meeting

A rift between two of the Madison County trustees of the Metro-East Sanitary District became evident during a meeting yesterday morning described by Board President Walter "Shang" Greathouse of Granite City as "a bit of a donnybrook."

No fists were swung, but anger was obvious as Trustee Russell Robinson of Granite City sought additional firings and stringent work rules in response to what Greathouse believes was the firing Friday of Robinson's wife, Deloris, from her job as a clerk in the pollution department of the sanitary district.

Greathouse said a three-week time study by an expert indicated that the seven clerks were working an average of 75 percent of the time, so he ordered Mrs. Robinson, who was the recently hired of the seven, terminated, "since the others had 25 percent of their time free," Greathouse said. "We can't raise rates and have excess workers around here," he told the Press-Record after the meeting.

Yesterday morning's meeting was the first since Friday's firing and Robinson came in wanting to fire all three of the sanitary district's attorneys. A motion to that effect made by Robinson died for lack of a second.

Robinson then contended that attorneys Dick Allen and Robert J. Healey specifically should be fired and Greathouse came to their defense. Allen has collected more than $10,000 in delinquent sewage treatment fees and has charged the district $2,400 for his services, Greathouse said. "We can't afford to lay off our attorneys. We make every effort to collect these bills in the office before turning them over to an attorney and then he keeps about 25 percent," Greathouse said.

Robinson then indicated he felt the pollution plant staffs at the Cahokia and Lansdowne treatment plants should be reduced and Greathouse said the plants are operating with only three employees each and one superintendent splitting his time between the two. Additional cuts would be impossible, he contended.

He later said that the collections just about meet the expenditures of the two treatment plants, not counting major improvements, such as the repairs the Cahokia plant is undergoing.

He said he is proud of the work being done to bring that plant up to the specifications of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and doing the work at half the cost a contractor would have charged.

He estimated that when the repairs are completed, using sanitary district employees when possible, will cost about $75,000, including labor. A contractor would have charged at least $150,000 for the work, he believes.

Greathouse is to appear before a representative of the Illinois attorney general's office in Belleville tomorrow to answer charges that the plant has been discharging raw sewage into the Mississippi River.

He said he is confident that the repairs done to the plant, thus far, and the rapid work schedule on the remainder of the repairs will be satisfactory to the attorney general. "I take it very seriously when we get a citation from the attorney general of the state of Illinois," Greathouse commented.

Greathouse also is to meet with the business agent for the Teamsters tomorrow to discuss Mrs. Robinson's firing. She was among the clerks represented by the Teamsters and may file a grievance against the sanitary district, it was indicated.

KC to honor 'old timers'

"Old timers" in the Knights of Columbus, Tri-City Council 1098, will be honored with a steak dinner Saturday evening, followed by dancing to the music of the Just Because Combo.

The event is a part of the 75th anniversary celebration for the council, which will conclude with a Jubilee Celebration Oct. 10.

There will be a $5 per person donation requested at the door Saturday for the dinner and dancing. A cash bar will be available beginning at 6 p.m.

Those planning to attend must make reservations in advance by calling T.A. Feeler at 876-5017. There is a limitation on the number of seats.

"Old-timers" to be honored will be those with honorary memberships, honorary life memberships and those with 25 years or more of continuous membership. Special recognition will be given to several with more than 50 years of consecutive membership, it was indicated.

It has been announced that Bishop Joseph McNicholas has agreed to celebrate Mass for the Jubilee Celebration at 5:30 p.m. Oct. 10 at St. Joseph's Church. That will be followed by a dinner dance at Croatian Home in Madison.

The bishop will be among several dignitaries from the Catholic church, the Knights of Columbus state organization and city and area public officials who have indicated they will take part in the Jubilee activities.

Worship hours change at First Presbyterian

The First United Presbyterian Church, 22nd Street and Madison Avenue, will return to two worship services on Sunday, Sept. 13, according to the Rev. David B. Maxton, pastor.

Worship services will be at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. with church school to convene at 9:40 and 10:40 on Sunday.

A nursery for babies and toddlers will be available from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon for the convenience of parents attending services, the pastor noted.

To begin the fall programs all children and young people will meet in the rooms they were in last year and then go to the sanctuary for a rally day program, where all who are graduating to a new department will be recognized and presented promotion certificates.

Rev. Maxton explained that those going from the third to the fourth grade will receive Bibles, and those entering the first, fourth and seventh grades will be assigned to new departments. All other church students will remain in the departments they attended last year.

Church Women United fall forum Sept. 29

Church Women United of the Quad-Cities will hold its 1983 Fall Forum on Tuesday, Sept. 29, in the Wiseman Room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, it was announced this week.

The annual program will take place from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Reservations, costing $2.50 each, are requested by Sept. 22.

Marie Gordon, forum chairman, said the $2.50 reservation fee will be donated by CWU members to the community through the medical center—"as a gift to be used where it is most needed."

CWU members will be guests of the hospital. The reservations are required for a luncheon, which is part of the day's activities. Mrs. Gordon explained. Friends may be invited.

The program will focus on information about new services available in the community and is being planned under the supervision of Paul Smith, director of the SEMC Chemical Dependency Unit, and other hospital personnel.

Discussion topics, presented by Smith, David Fitzgerald, Nikola Irish and Stella Kinsombing, will include:

"Spiritual Aspects of Recovery," "Role of the

An adult class will be reactivated and new members are invited to attend the session set for 9:40 a.m. in the first room on the sanctuary level, the minister announced.

Now that the summer months are over all other church activities are beginning new programs and practice sessions. Choir schedules include, Sanctuary Choir, directed by Nina Gerard will rehearse on Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. with the first session to be tonight.

The Children's Choir under the direction of Isabel Schmid will rehearse at 4:15 p.m. each Wednesday with the initial one set for Sept. 16. Children will direct the Youth Choir and has scheduled practice session for each Sunday at 5:30 p.m. with the first one to be Sept. 13.

The Sanctuary and Youth Choirs are to sing at the Sept. 20 worship hour and the Children's Choir will perform on Oct. 18.

A catechism class for young people in the seventh and eighth grades will begin on Sunday, Oct. 4, at 7:30 p.m., Rev. Maxton said.

Chaplain, "Family Illness" and "Needs of Women."

Additional information may be obtained from CWU representatives at member churches or from Mrs. Gordon.

Mrs. Dolores Allen is president of Church Women United, a community of church women from Orthodox, Roman Catholic, Protestant and other Christian religious traditions.

Rev. Maxton to speak in DuQuoin

The Rev. David B. Maxton will be the guest speaker at the 10 a.m. service at the First United Presbyterian Church in DuQuoin, Ill., Sunday, Sept. 13.

His father, the late Rev. William McAra Maxton served the church from 1907 until his death in 1945.

The local minister grew up in the manse in DuQuoin and is to speak at the 125th anniversary observance of the DuQuoin church.

Following the worship hour a luncheon will be served in the church basement at 11:30 a.m., according to the announcement.

THE GENE FULLER FAMILY of Mount Vernon, Ill. They will present special awards during the Sunday School hour and present a mini-concert at 10 a.m. Sunday at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, in conjunction with Rally Day. The guest performers will also sing several gospel selections at the worship hour at 10:15 a.m., according to the Rev. Louis Erick, pastor.

Fall crusade opens at Grace Baptist Church

Evangelist, Lee Castro, of Fort Worth, Texas, will be conducting the annual fall crusade at Grace Baptist Church, 2000 Edwards St., beginning with the 10:45 a.m. worship service on Sunday, Sept. 13. Services will continue nightly at 7 p.m. through Sept. 20, according to Dr. Bob Jones, pastor.

"The Gospel-Singing Troubadour," as he is known, has been a full-time evangelist for many years. Prior to this, he had spent four years as a member of a teenage gang in Corpus Christi, where he carried a switchblade knife and a .22 caliber pistol at all times. He had witnessed the death of several of his peers, both friends and enemies, before he decided to change his lifestyle. He will be telling his story during the week.

Of Mexican descent, Castro has used his bilingual abilities to minister to many Spanish-speaking people in Texas, Mexico, and Central and South America. He has pastored several Spanish churches in Texas while attending the University of Corpus Christi, where he studied for the ministry. Having been licensed to preach at age 19, he became an ordained minister of the Second Baptist Church in Corpus Christi in 1964.

In addition to the nightly services, Pastor Bob Jones has announced that Castro will conduct services at noon each day, Monday through Friday, following pot-luck lunches. Those who cannot attend the evening services

LEE CASTRO are invited to attend the noon-day services.

The Wednesday service will begin at 11 a.m. and will be hosted by the Holy Sixties, a senior group of the church.

Psalmsmen of Baptist church

The Psalmsmen Quartet of Waverly, Tenn., will be in concert at 2 p.m. Sunday at the New Hope Southern Baptist Church, 301 Route 3 and Moffitt Avenue, at St. Thomas Road.

The public is invited to attend. According to the Rev. Bill McMaister, pastor, a free-will offering will be sought.

The minister said the gospel singing group presents an "inspirational program of new songs and favorite old-time hymns."

Marriage licenses issued

Marriage licenses issued by the office of Miss Evelyn Bowles, county clerk, Edwardsville, to Quad-City residents:

Thomas Hugh Harrison and Brenda Sue Soden, Timothy L. Hendricks and Sherrie L. Hartline, Gregory J. Laeshman and Susan L. Basarich, Ronald L. Ussery and D. Renee Plemons, all of Granite City.

Kevin Duane Hale, East Alton, and Teresa Faye Fenton, Granite City.

Michael Glenn Kruckeberg, Warden, and Ann Marie Holten, Granite City.

Harvey Alvin Phillips and Elizabeth Ann Phillips, Wood River.

LONNIE MANNING

Tri-City Tabernacle to hear vocalist

Lonnie Manning will be a guest at Tri-City Park Tabernacle on Sunday, Sept. 13, in the morning worship service which will begin at 10:45 a.m.

Manning is a well known vocalist who ministers in a very unique musical setting. Formerly an associate at the host church, he has appeared on the PTL television network, 700 Club television, FGBMF International Convention and in churches of all denominations throughout the United States.

He was guest soloist with the Tulare County Symphony, has conducted more than 100 major choral works, produced and directed 10 Broadway musicals and prepared five choral groups for the West Coast Opera Company productions.

The Rev. Jim Parks, pastor of the local church, extends an invitation to area residents to attend the special ministry.

St. John Lutheran plans mortgage burning service

Festive services surrounding the mortgage burning event begin this Sunday at St. John Lutheran Church, St. Clair and Dale avenues, and will continue for two consecutive Sundays, according to the Rev. Samuel Boda, host pastor.

Rally and Youth Sunday will be observed this Sunday featuring guest preacher, the Rev. Godfrey "Bo" Jarabak, of Woodbine, Md. He is a former seminary field worker and youth leader of the congregation.

Children will open a procession and will sing later in the service with other young people reading the scriptures. Present and former Sunday School and Vacation Bible School teachers will be recognized at the service.

Organist will be Mrs. June Barton of St. Louis and Rev. Boda will serve as worship leader.

Following the service, a church picnic and barbecue will take place in the picnic pavilion on the church grounds starting at 1 p.m. During the afternoon there will be a youth olympic demonstration with the young people of the church competing under the direction of seminary youth workers, Joe Judge and Paul Elam and church counselors.

Mrs. Heather Reed will lead an informal sing-a-long and a spiritual clown will be present after 4 p.m. to make a presentation for the spiritual growth of the children. A closing supper is planned for 5 p.m.

Chairman of picnic arrangements is John T. Severine Sr. and Harold Gebhardt will be in charge of the entire mortgage burning committee.

The congregation president is Harold Hackney and he announces all committees will meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the church fellowship hall.

The church membership will celebrate the 22nd anniversary of the dedication of its present church on Sept. 20, and the mortgage burning will take place at a climatic worship service on Sept. 27 to be followed by a banquet of thanksgiving, Rev. Boda noted.

Rally Day set at Our Lord's Lutheran

"Permit the children to come unto me" is the theme for the opening Rally Day Services, Sept. 13, for the church school of Our Lord's Lutheran Church, Hwy. 50 at Rt. 159, Collinsville-Maryville.

The young people will gather at 9:30 a.m. for a program in the church sanctuary. A special visitor will appear, songs will be sung and the young people will meet their new curriculum teachers, according to the Rev. R. L. Butler, pastor.

Classes will be available this year for nursery, kindergarten, one and two, three and four, five and six, seven, eight, and adults. Further information can be received by calling Mrs. Kay Butler at the church office on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8:30-4:30.

Our Lord's Lutheran Church is a 14-year-old congregation of the Lutheran Church in America, Illinois Synod, with 271 baptized members from Caseyville, Collinsville, Edwardsville, Fairview Heights, Glen Carbon, Granite City, Highland, Maryville, O'Fallon and Troy, the pastor added.

Chapel begun by King of King's College Chapel at Cambridge, England, begun by pious, feeble Henry VI in 1446, was completed by Henry VII in 1515. Its celebrated for its brilliant stained glass, massive pipe organ and 80-foot-high fan-vaulted ceiling.

BUILD UP YOURSELF

We are instructed to build up ourselves on our faith. Build up, not tear down. Be positive not negative. If you do not think much of yourself, no one else will either. You are somebody. You do count. You are important to God. It's up to you to believe that.

STAY IN CONTROL

Being a success or failure in life should never, never, never, be allowed to rest in anyone's power except your own. Paul the Apostle said: "I can do all things through Christ..." He had many setbacks, including some time in prison, but he remained in control of himself. If you maintain faith in God, love Him, and follow Him, all things will work together for your good. There is no such thing as failure in a believer's life. Failure is turned into a process of learning and becomes one more reason to lift up our voices in praise to God.

USE YOUR FAITH

Faith without works is dead faith. We can hold some beautiful conversations talking about faith and never experience it for ourselves. The only way to activate faith in your life is to take action. Pray for a job and then go out to find it. Believe that God is going to help you. He will. Pray for your physical healing and then rise up and act as though you were already healed. God is going to help you. He will. Pray for your physical healing and then rise up and act as though you were already healed. God will honor your faith with a miracle. You and your faith will grow together.

PRAY IN THE HOLY GHOST

This can be nothing else than letting the Spirit of God control your entire being. His Spirit in us. Praying through us. Seeking His will. Guiding our petitions. Small wonder that the Scriptures declare that "greater is He that is in you than he that is in the world!"

Rest assured that whosoever builds up themselves on faith, praying in the Holy Ghost, shall be more than conquerors through Christ our Lord.

Will you build up yourself?

Today.

Home preserved food is longlasting, nutritious

Home-preserved food can last as long and be as nutritious as commercially canned food, says a food storage expert. But you have to do it right.

"If it's handled and processed properly, home-preserved food can have the same shelf life as commercially canned food," says D. Bates Ellsworth, director of the Ezra Taft Benson Institute in Provo, Utah, which specializes in home storage and gardening.

Home-canned foods can have a shelf life of two to five years, depending on the storage environment, he says. But only if you process it carefully according to instructions provided by extension offices and the major bottling companies. Once preserved, food is best kept below 70 degrees Fahrenheit—preferably between 45 and 55. Food stored above 70 has a significantly shortened shelf life.

Experts from the Benson Institute have traveled extensively to learn and teach food storage and gardening techniques to people throughout the world. The institute has researched food storage because of the emphasis on storage given by the leaders of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, which sponsors the institute at Brigham Young University. For decades, LDS Church leaders have counseled members to prepare for emergencies by having a year's supply of food, clothing and other necessities and to grow a home garden.

And the garden is a significant part of an ideal home storage program, Ellsworth says.

"It's ideal if people produce as much of their own food as they can," he says. "They don't have to have an entire year's supply in cans and cartons. Some of it can be in the ground." A home garden supplies vitamins, minerals and roughage in a fresh form. Additionally, some vegetables—green, leafy ones and tomatoes—grow well indoors year-round as long as they have direct or reflected sunlight.

The rest of a home food storage should include only foods that you're used to eating, Ellsworth says. "The first thing to remember is that someday you may be eating what you store." And the first thing to consider in planning garden foods for home storage is to plant the foods that you already frequently use in your diet. Most people store staples such as powdered milk, wheat and honey, but those foods aren't part of their normal diet, he says. People changing from their usual diet to one of only staples or dehydrated foods may become ill and even require hospitalization. "Which is the last thing you want in an emergency," he says.

So instead of storing only staple food items, keep track of what you eat for two weeks and build a storage program around that, Ellsworth says. Most people don't prepare a wide variety of foods at home; they prepared the same things every few weeks. So by recording what you eat for two weeks and multiplying it by 26—with some modification—you can develop a shopping list of what you need for storage.

If you want to include storage items such as dried fruits or dehydrated eggs, begin incorporating them into your diet, he says.

"And don't dry foods just because drying is popular now," he says. "Do it because your family likes to eat dried foods."

Ellsworth gives these home storage guidelines: —Store a variety of foods that are readily available and not too costly and that comprise a balanced diet. Store foods that have the nutrients you need for a balanced diet—fats, carbohydrates, protein, vitamins and minerals.

—Buy storage foods in the quantity your family uses. Even if smaller packages cost more per ounce, you save by avoiding the waste and contamination of a large opened container which can't be used completely before it spoils.

—Your first storage priority should be for the basics: grains, legumes, flour, dry milk, sugar, honey, salt, oil and water. The second priority is fruits and vegetables, followed by items like eggs, cheese or meat substitutes.

—Don't make a home storage system a one-time panic shopping trip that depletes your savings account as well as the local supermarket shelves. Instead, accumulate a supply slowly and carefully. It will cost less and you'll probably store items you can use instead of food purchased hurriedly or frantically.

"Begin thinking of storage foods as part of an expanded regular food supply which is rotated through daily use," he says. Your food storage shouldn't be a emergency supply stashed in a corner of your basement. If it is, the limited shelf life of even canned dehydrated foods will eventually render your storage foods useless.

Study facts of 'Agent Orange'

A group of scientists and veterans' representatives who met in Washington to advise the Veterans Administration on dealing with the Agent Orange controversy were asked to speak out on the subject to "help veterans and news media understand what is known about Agent Orange."

Robert P. Nimmo, head of the Veterans Administration, made the request in opening remarks before an Aug. 19 meeting of the Advisory Committee on the Health-Related Effects of Herbicides.

In remarks recorded earlier, the Administrator of Veterans Affairs added, "Obviously the many studies now underway need to be completed before we have all the answers. But it seems to me as a layman that you already have established a solid basis for correcting some of the misinformation that continues to be cir-

Scientific studies related to Agent Orange which were discussed by the Advisory Committee included:

An epidemiological study designed by the UCLA School of Public Health;

An analysis of world literature related to herbicides being conducted by an independent contractor;

A study of birth defects underway at the Center for Disease Control, Atlanta; and,

A follow-up study of the health of some 1,200 air crew members who received massive exposure to Agent Orange and other herbicides during spraying operations in Vietnam.

"The emotional issue of Agent Orange is by far the most frustrating problem I am facing in my new role with the federal government," Nimmo told the group.

"I wish the facts were available that would allow reasonable people to say that exposure to Agent Orange in Vietnam does have a direct cause and effect relationship to the current and future health of veterans, or that the facts would let us, in good conscience, reassure those veterans and their families that they have nothing to fear from that experience," he added.

Nimmo also told his advisors, "VA is completely dependent on the scientific community for our course of action. In all areas VA deals with medical problems on the basis of the latest validated information. We have no independent position on Agent Orange."

"There are many people who are sincerely and deeply concerned about Agent Orange who could get a measure of relief from anxiety by knowing the facts and perspectives you can provide."

SUE boosts fares 20-cents for inter-campus bus service

Major increases in operating costs over the past two years are cited as the major reasons for a 20-cent boost in the bus fare for the inter-campus bus service at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The increase, effective Monday, Sept. 28, will raise the fare to 70 cents per ride. Operating Monday through Friday, the service offers five round trips daily between Alton and the SIUE campus and seven round trips daily between the campus and East St. Louis and between the campus and Edwardsville.

Gordon Hankla, acting director of Auxiliary Services, stated that increases in operating costs make it necessary to increase the fare. He said since the fall of 1979, when the fare was last raised, gasoline prices have increased more than 60 percent, labor has increased 20 percent and bus rental costs have increased approximately 31 percent.

Hankla explained that although cost controls on the service and strong patronage by riders have helped the university to subsidize the service each year. During the next year, despite the increased fare, a major part of the service's operating costs will continue to be funded by the university.

Hankla said increasing the fare will mean continuation of "the least expensive possible form of transportation when one considers a 20-mile trip by automobile costs more than $1 just for gasoline."

Effective Sept. 28, buses are scheduled to leave the East St. Louis campus, 411 E. Broadway, at 7:15, 8:55 and 10:30 a.m., noon, 1:20, and 5:25 p.m. The trip requires 30 minutes. Buses leave the SIUE campus for East St. Louis at 8:20, 9:50 and 11:25 a.m. and 12:45, 3:30, 5:30 and 8:45 p.m. (there is no 8:45 p.m. trip on Fridays).

The Alton to SIUE schedule includes buses leaving the Worden Street lot on the Alton campus at 7:15 and 8:30 a.m. and 2:20, 4:05 and 5:35 p.m. arriving at the SIUE campus approximately 30 minutes later, and leaving the SIUE campus at 7:55 a.m. and 1:40, 3:30, 5:05 and 8:45 p.m. (there is no 8:45 p.m. trip on Fridays) for return trips to Alton.

Trips between SIUE and Edwardsville require 10 to 15 minutes and include stops at the intersection of Fillmore and Schwartz streets, and at the courthouse. Buses leave the Edwardsville campus at 7:50, 9 and 11 a.m. and 1:55, 3:40 and 8:45 p.m. (there is no 8:45 p.m. trip on Fridays).

Passes are required to ride a university bus. Drivers are not allowed to accept cash or checks for rider fares. Passes may be purchased at the East St. Louis campus, the general office of the Alton campus, and the bursar's office in the Rendleman Building on the Edwardsville campus.

Additional information is available from the Office of Auxiliary Services, 1-692-3100.

WORKSHOPS IN BOOK ARTS DURING FALL

As part of its four-month long Festival of the Book Arts, Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden will hold workshops and lectures on bookbinding, papermaking, paper marbling, calligraphy, and book restoration.

Bernard Middleton, a bookbinder whose work is exhibited in the permanent collections of the British Library, the Royal Library of The Hague and other museums and private collections, will lead two leather bookbinding workshops for students with previous bookbinding experience Sept. 16-19 and Sept. 21-24. Cost of the workshops is $200 per student, and the fee includes all materials.

For those who are interested in bookbinding but have no previous experience, there will be two elementary bookbinding courses, the first scheduled for Saturdays, Sept. 26 through Oct. 4, and the second for Saturdays, Oct. 31 through Dec. 5.

North battles South to scoreless tie

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Unlike other North-South prep soccer games in the past, Granite South didn't have far to look to figure this one out. They blew their chances. Three beauties in fact.

Add to that outstanding goaltending by Granite North goalie Rich Branding and you've got a 0-0 double overtime tie between the two powers at South's Gauntlet Tuesday night.

"We definitely blew at least three good chances," said South head coach Gene Baker. "But that's all part of the game. We've got to learn to settle down and take our time."

South's five-time defending state champions had two wide-open goal mouths staring them in the face Tuesday. Both times the ball was fired wide. And late in regulation time, South All-Stater David Paz hit the right goal post with a shot that appeared to have Branding beaten.

"I think there's no doubt that they (South) had a bit more of the play," said North head coach Bob Kehoe, whose Steelers ran their record to 1-0-1 with the tie. "But it seemed like we got stronger as the game went along."

Indeed, North had its chances to put the game away in regulation time too. The Steelers had three straight corner kicks late in regulation and came close to scoring on each occasion. Paul Barrington came the closest with a blistering shot with 2:08 remaining. But South goalie Joe LeMaster came up with the save.

"I don't think we played too bad for only our second game of the season," said Kehoe. "But I guess I'd rather see a conclusion than a tie. But it's better than a loss."

South had the edge in shots on goal 16-6. The Warriors had ten corner kicks to the Steelers' five.

The teams were tentative in the first quarter — getting the feel. But in the second quarter, that old North-South spirit was revived. Pushing, shoving. A few cheap shots by both teams when the referees weren't looking. Typical of two evenly-matched rivals. A few cuts and bruises on both teams. The most serious injury happened on a purely accidental play.

But with 13:56 remaining in the third quarter, North Tim Dean was struck in the face by a ball kicked by South's Paz. He went down and was taken to Oliver C. Anderson Hospital in Maryville, the top part of his head wrapped in bandages. It was later revealed that he has a blood clot in his right eye.

"They plan to keep him in the hospital for maybe five more days," said Kehoe later. "They're worried about complications. His vision was fuzzy in that eye after it happened."

The first open net opportunity for South came early in the first quarter. After a shot by Richie Moore was stopped, South's Ed Cowley had the rebound and an open net staring him in the face, with Branding sprawled out of position to his left. But the over-anxious Cowley fired the ball wide.

In the second quarter, South's Timmy O'Toole, off a corner kick by teammate Tony Segobiano, missed an open net. He slid while taking the shot at the ball went wide. "You have to make the most of your opportunities in a game like this," said Baker. "We're never satisfied with anything less than a win."

"I think the players are a little frustrated."

Among the most frustrated was South's Fritz Brewer. The diminutive Brewer (he stands 5-1 and weighs all of 90 pounds) played a brilliant game. Twice he made steals and rushed down the field, only to run into a group of larger North players who'd block his path to the goal.

But in the first overtime, Brewer made a rush down the right side of the field into the corner and up toward the goal. He centered

Steeler harriers are young

GRANITE CITY — One thing for sure, Granite City North will have an experienced cross country team next season. But this season's another story. North harrier coach Pete Robinson is getting his team ready for the seventh annual North Invitational, which will be this Saturday. And there's nary a senior on the team. "We don't have any seniors on the team," he said. "Not one of the returning seniors came back. "Some got jobs. Some fell in love or something. I don't know. But that I do know is, that we don't have much experience. That's good for the future but not too good for right now."

Among the missing seniors is Paul Hooser, who developed into one of North's top runners last season.

But Robinson isn't worried. "The kids we have are a good group," he said. "I think by the time the end of the season rolls around, we'll be able to run with just about anybody in the area. But for now, we'll have to take our lumps while we learn."

Robinson named Kenny Meyer as his number one runner at the beginning of the season. "He's fit right now," said Robinson. "But he'll be pushed hard by a couple of sophomores we've got."

Jimmy Robertson and John Peters. They'll be up there with him before the year's over."

Meyer finished fifth in the Alton Top Ten Meet Tuesday afternoon with a time of 17:07 over the three mile course. "I've could get our top three runners under 16 minutes Saturday we'd be doing well," said Robinson. "Meyer has improved a lot over the summer."

Robinson said there isn't one particular runner for team that will stand out in the area this season. "For this first time in a long time, there isn't a heavy favorite going into the season," he said. "I guess, by the middle of the season, we'll know who's going to be the tougher teams around."

According to Robinson, cross country is a difficult sport to coach. "It's mostly individual effort from the kids," he said. "A coach can only have them and motivate them so far. The rest is up to them."

Robinson has started using a series of conditioning drills to help his runners develop. One involves jumping with both feet on and off a series of wooden boxes of different heights. "It helps give a runner a stronger kick," he said.

North has 24 runners out this season. "It's about an average year. We've had more and we've had less."

Included in that contingent is a group of seven freshman girls. "All the girls we have this season are freshman. They've got a good attitude and like to work."

Cougars to host pesky Evansville

EDWARDSVILLE — A busy weekend of soccer is on tap in Edwardsville as the soccer Cougars of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville open their 1981 regular season home schedule. The Cougars, who are fresh from a second-place finish in the University of South Carolina Invitational Tournament, are scheduled to battle the University of Evansville, Friday at 8 p.m. as the second game of a doubleheader. Avila College will open the action Friday with a 6 p.m. game against Maryville College. Sunday, Sept. 13, the Cougars will suit up again as they battle Avila College in a scheduled 1:30 p.m. start.

The Cougars kicked off their 1981 season last Friday by defeating Lynchburg College, 2-0, in the first round of the University of South Carolina Invitational Tournament. Despite nine blistering shots on goal in the first period, the Cougars

Sting rankings soon

CHICAGO — The Chicago Sting of the North American Soccer League, will begin (with the help of four Illinois sportswriters) ranking the top ten prep soccer teams in Illinois beginning next week.

The Sting, as part of their weekly newsletter, will also name a "Team of the Week" and a "Coach of the Week."

Pete Hayes, sports editor of the Press-Record, has been named one of the four sportswriters who will make up the staff of the Sting Newsletter, which is distributed to soccer-playing high school in the state. Among the other Sting Newsletter staff members is Mike Conklin of the Chicago Tribune.

The Press-Record will also publish its weekly regional prep soccer and football rankings beginning next week.

didn't crack the scoreboard until the 59:28 mark when sophomore back Steve Gauvain connected on a penalty kick. Just over seven minutes later, at the 66:48 mark, freshman Bruce Bellinger took a Pat Malloy pass and put it into the upper left corner of the goal while the defense, headed up by goalkeeper Mark Downar, allowed just two shots on goal.

In the championship game against the University of South Carolina, the Cougars found out that soccer can be a game of inches.

BAC wins opener

SPECIAL
BELLEVILLE — The Belleville Area College Dutchmen romped past Principia here Wednesday 5-0 in collegiate soccer. It was the season opener for both teams.

Two Granite Cityans scored for BAC. Perry Hartwick, a graduate of Granite City North High, got the first goal of the game unassisted at the 25:00 mark of the first half. Dan Hogan scored another unassisted goal at the 34:00 mark.

In the second half, freshman Eric Waltenberger from Granite City South scored off an assist, from John Reniger at the 59:00 mark. Andy Arterburn scored from Granite Cityan Jeff DeMott at 70:03 and Kelly Taylor scored from DeMott at 80:40. DeMott is a sophomore from Granite North.

BAC outshot Principia 26-5 and had the edge in corner kicks 12-1. Dutchmen goalie Bob Beloraydic made five saves. BAC also out-fouled Principia 19-4.

"It was a good game, to open the season with," said BAC coach Mike Moore. "We

North scramble

GRANITE CITY — The seventh annual Granite City North Golf Scramble Tournament will be held this Saturday, Sept. 12 at Arlington Golf Course near Granite City. The scramble, which will feature three two-man scramble teams from each school entered, will be divided into three flights, A, B and C.

Defending scramble champion Centralia will lead the list of schools entered, which will include Alton, Edwardsville, Highland, Jerseyville, O'Fallon, Salem, Mt. Vernon, Wood River, Granite City South and host Granite City North. Tee-off time will be 11:30 a.m.

Boosters to meet

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City North Boosters Club will hold its first regular meeting of the school year tonight, Sept. 10 at 7:30 in the school's cafeteria.

Topics for discussion will include the Steeler sports booklet and a November dance. All parents of North students are invited to attend.

Movessian wins

GRANITE CITY — Joe Movessian of Belleville came away with the championship of the third annual Armenian Open Golf Tournament last Sunday at Arlington Golf Course. Movessian carded an 80 over the 18-hole course. Terry Vartanian of Fairview Heights had the longest drive, for the day, Harry Vartanian of Fairview Heights, last years low-handicap man, won the closest-to-the-hole honors. Jake Vardanian won high scorer honors of the day.

Khema sandwiches and drinks were served the golfers between the ninth and tenth holes. A shish-kebob dinner was served to golfers and guests, following the tournament. Attendance prizes were won by Rich Asadorian, Charlie and Chris Tourajlian, Jake Vardanian, Mike and Jeff Hagopian, Dick, Terry, Dennis and Sam Vartanian.

Volleyball meeting

GRANITE CITY — There will be an important organizational meeting for the Granite City Park District's volleyball program. The meeting will be Thursday, Sept. 17, 7 p.m., at the Nameoki Recreation Center. All interested parties are urged to attend. The volleyball season is scheduled to begin Nov. 2. For more information, those interested may contact the Park Office at 877-3059.

Baker, ISU harriers ready

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — Illinois State University cross country coach John Coughlan rates his 1981 toughest in the Midwest.

According to Coughlan, the Redbirds will face more than half of the top cross country teams in the nation during a season which begins at 10 a.m. Saturday on the ISU Golf Course when the Redbirds meet Bradley in a dual meet. The Redbirds will face a host of top teams in either dual or invitational meets this fall, including Iowa State, ranked No. 2 in the nation; Auburn, the Southeast Conference defending champion; Penn State, champions of the East; Southern Illinois, 1980 Missouri Valley Conference champs; plus Illinois, Florida, Purdue and Michigan.

Coughlan, in his fifth season as ISU cross country and track coach, has one reason for the tough slate. "It's an ambitious group of people to run against," he said, "but they're the type of people we want to run against. I think one way to get into the top 20 is to run against the top 20." And Coughlan thinks he has the runners who can meet that competition. Back again is senior Mike Baker of Granite City North, who placed 54th at last year's NCAA cross country finals. Baker, an all-American, was fourth at the 1980 NCAA District meet. "Mike Baker is in a position to have an outstanding cross country season," said Coughlan. "He could even have a better season than last year." Seniors Jim Galen of Dalton (Thornridge) and Herman Sahneyah of Tuba City, Ariz., are solid.

I DO NOT KNOW

What is your future? Do you know? If you are one of Granite City's young people, chances are you do not.

Do you know what you want to do with your life? If you do, how do you intend on going about it? Can you or your parents foot the bill for the cost of a college education or vocational school?

No matter how you look at it, it's tough to get a good job and almost impossible without some kind of higher education. And if you can't afford it what are your alternatives? Of course you can always get an unskilled job at minimum wage, which is fine if you're living at home with your parents.

But what happens when you move out, get married, have children? Three-thirty-five an hour doesn't go far then. In one month, you're probably out of money, luck and hope. Now where do you turn? Where are all the teenagers turning?

One person trying to find out is S/Sgt. James Collins, a Marine Corps Recruiter. He says, "I'll ask a young person: 'What do you want to do with your life?' And they say 'I don't know.' 'What do you want to accomplish with your future?' 'I don't know.'"

S/Sgt. Collins is genuinely interested in the welfare of this city's younger generation. Give him a try. He has some answers for you. You'll find him at the Marine Recruiting Office in Alton, Ill., call collect 463-6414 or 463-6415 and ask for S/Sgt. James Collins.

If you still have doubts, answer this question: Are a few years worth a good education, a good job, and a chance to be someone? If your answer to that is still I DON'T KNOW, maybe its time you found out.

In Michigan, a driver slams on his brakes to avoid a nonexistent deer. In Georgia, another driver rolls his car down an embankment to avoid hitting a stalled car, also nonexistent. Both were victims of highway hypnosis, the mental lapse caused by miles of unobstructed driving, the gentle curves of an expressway and the steady hum of tires at high speeds. Help avoid the hazards of fatigue and boredom on long trips by wearing loose-fitting, comfortable clothes, being certain that the car is well ventilated and stopping to rest and stretch frequently.

Before you begin a long trip of driving make sure you are physically fit for the hours of driving and especially make sure your car is in perfect condition. This can save you time, money and aggravation and make your trip more enjoyable and safer. For professional worry free service for your car, call BIG 4 CHEVROLET COMPANY at 345-5444 or visit 1820 Vandalia Street in Collinsville. We're open Monday thru Friday 7-5 and offer free service and body shop estimates.

AUTO TIP:
Playing the radio, regularly changing driving position and the position of hands on the steering wheel are ways of breaking up monotonous driving.

North netters strong

GRANITE CITY — This could finally be the year Judy Ward has been waiting for.

Ward, head girls tennis coach at Granite City North High, started five years ago from scratch. This season, she could reap the benefits. "We're strong," she said. "This is by far the best team we've ever had here."

When Ward arrived on the scene at North, most of the girls who went out for tennis didn't know a racket from an add-in. "When freshmen go out for tennis here," she said, "they are beginners. They are starting from the ground floor."

The seniors on this year's North team have been under Ward's guidance for three seasons now. "We don't have a lot of depth," she said. "But the ones we do have are strong."

Leading the way for the Steelers is number one singles player Diane Kwiatkowski. "She's been out since her freshman year," said Ward. "She and (Mary) Kafalas are the top two right now."

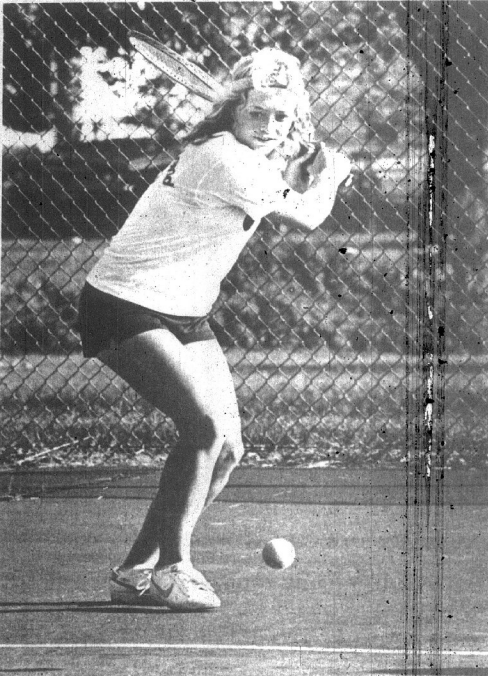

Kafalas and Kwiatkowski won their district doubles title last season and won a match at the State Finals. "They're number one doubles obviously."

The number three singles player for the Steelers will be Lori Fyalka.

Ward said another reason her team could be so strong this season is the plight other area teams find themselves in. "Not only are we up this season, but so many of the other schools are down."

Among the schools who will be "up" this season are two in the Gateway East Conference, along with North. "Edwardsville will be real strong," said Ward. "And (Belleville) Althoff will be tough."

"That makes it kind of tough when twofold the toughest teams are in the same conference we are."

North got its season off to a strong start Tuesday at Waterloo with a 5-0 victory.

Kwiatkowski won her match from Beth Klube 6-4, 6-1; Kafalas defeated Anne Knaust 6-3, 6-1; and Fyalka beat Lisa Yochum 6-2, 6-1. In doubles, North's Christi Lauderdale and Susan West beat Nikki Borr and Stacey Dilley 6-4, 5-7, 6-1. And Sandra Sunderlick and Bethany Lohr beat Tracie Bradley and Dawn Buelter 6-4, 6-4.

Hart out of action

ST. LOUIS — Jim Hart, after undergoing minor knee surgery earlier this week, is listed as "doubtful" for this Sunday's St. Louis football Cardinal game at Dallas. Hart, the veteran Big Red quarterback, injured his right knee when he fell over one of his own blockers while trying to avoid rushing Miami Dolphin linemen last Sunday in the Cardinals' 20-7 season-opening loss at Bush Memorial Stadium.

At first it was thought the injury was only a bruise. But further examinations revealed more serious injury.

The "doubtful" category among injury listings means that there is a 90 percent chance that Hart will not see action Sunday at Texas Stadium against the Cowboys. Rookie quarterback Neil Lomax is expected to get the starting nod against Dallas. He played last week against the year Notre Dame grad Rusty Lisch, who hails from Belleville. Hart has had a history of knee troubles.

the ball for Paz who hit the right post on the goal.

But as brilliant as Brewer was, North's Steve Trittschuh was the steadiest player on the field. He and Barrington almost singlehandedly gave North a regulation time victory when they combined in front of the South goal late to give the Steelers their best shots. "Trittschuh's a hell of a player," said Baker. "He's the one on that team you have to watch all the time. He knows where he is every minute of the game."

Trittschuh's coach agreed. "He's a very good student of the game," said Kehoe. "I have no doubts about him at all. He's always in it."

Two percent crime increase in August

Major crime in Granite City increased only two percent in August, as compared to August, 1980, according to figures released by the Granite City Police Department.

Crime in five major categories declined last month, while offenses in four categories showed increases.

The most pronounced decreases in crime were in the categories of robberies, assaults and auto thefts. Robberies declined 66 percent, from three cases in August, 1980, to one case last month, assault cases were down 30 percent, from 39 cases to 27 in the same period, and auto theft cases dropped 12 percent, from 17 to 15 cases last month, the report shows. Homicide and rape cases declined from one in each category in August, 1980, to none last month.

Increases were shown in burglary cases, up 30 percent from 47 cases to 61 last month, auto burglary, up 11 percent from 27 cases to 30, and larceny, increasing six percent, from 133 cases in August, 1980, to 141 cases last month.

While auto theft, larceny and burglary arrests increased dramatically when comparing the two months, the total number of arrests in major cases was down five percent last month and the total number of cases cleared by arrest dropped seven percent, the report shows.

There was a 200 percent increase in auto theft arrests, up from one to two, an 82 percent increase in arrests for larceny, up from 22 to 40 arrests, and a 43 percent increase in arrests for burglary, from seven to 10.

Arrests in all other major crime categories declined, including a 60 percent drop in auto burglary arrests, from five to two last month. Rape and robbery arrests dropped from two in each category in August, 1980, to zero last month and there were no homicide arrests last month compared to one in August, 1980.

Including lesser charges and traffic offenses, a total of 249 persons were arrested last month and 356 charges were filed against them. That is down greatly from 483 persons arrested and 556 charges filed during August, 1980.

In the first eight months of this year, 3,283 persons have been arrested for various offenses (2,496 for traffic violations), while 3,848 charges have been filed. The report shows that 3,476 persons were arrested (2,300 for traffic) and 4,062 charges were filed during the first eight months of 1981.

The number of auto accidents was down 25 percent when comparing the two Augusts, but the number of persons injured increased 26 percent, the statistics show.

There were 100 accidents last month, compared to 134 in August of the previous year. Forty-nine persons were injured and one was killed in August, 1981, up from 38 injuries and no fatalities in the same month of 1980.

In the first eight months of 1981, three persons have lost their lives in vehicle accidents in Granite City, up from the two fatalities in one accident during the first eight months of 1980.

The report notes that the Granite City police department answered 2,245 complaints during August, 1981.

STATE PAYROLL DOWN State Comptroller Roland W. Burris reported this week there were 110,203 employees on the state payroll in July, a decrease of 1,236 from the previous month. Much of the decrease was attributed to a drop in extra help at several agencies and the summer break at state educational institutions. The higher education payroll was down by 710 employees, while the regular state payroll decreased by 526.

Grandparents Day Sept. 13

Parents, move over. Letting grandma and grandpa have a hand in rocking the cradle today may prevent headaches tomorrow, according to new studies.

The studies indicate that grandparents provide a crucial role in the healthy emotional development of children, particularly in a rootless, mobile society.

The neglected status of grandparents and the elderly was a major concern for Michael Goldgar of Atlanta, Ga., and Marian McQuade of Oak Hill, W. Va., both grandparents. In 1978, they joined forces in securing legislative sanction of Grandparents Day.

By 1979, Congress passed a bill permitting President Carter to proclaim the first national Grandparents Day, celebrated the first Sunday after Labor Day. This year, it falls on Sept. 13.

According to Goldgar, executive secretary for the National Council for the Observance of Grandparents Day, the event is gradually gaining in popularity in the midst of some controversy.

Dr. Arthur Kornhaber, a child psychiatrist in Westchester County, N.Y., welcomes the attention given to grandparents, even if it is just for one day.

"I can understand the misunderstanding on the part of the public regarding Grandparents Day, but it's not a contrived commercial holiday," said Kornhaber.

"Grandparents have special privileges in different cultures, but there's no rite of passage in America. The holiday forces us to think about aging," Kornhaber, 44, has strong views regarding the role of grandparents in society and has authored the book, "Grandparents and Grandchildren: The Vital Connection."

His interest in the subject came after working with emotionally troubled children who had severe relationship problems with their parents and even but not with their grandparents.

What followed was a random follow-up study of 600 grandparents and grandchildren. He found that, within the group, 85 percent of the grandchildren had no contact with their grandparents.

His research revealed that those children who enjoyed close ties with their grandparents had "a deep sense of history and a commitment to their family roots."

Grandparents, as living ancestors, also were shown to provide grandchildren with greater security and immunity against conforming to the demands of modern society.

According to Kornhaber, grandparents offer an unpressured relationship and unconditional acceptance, in contrast to parents.

"Grandparents relate to their grandchildren in a basic, sensory way. The emphasis is on food, emotional ties and such practical learning skills as fishing, hunting and gardening."

He regrets there is "such little regard for grandparents in the modern world."

"Americans are youth- and work-oriented and we don't place an emotional priority on our lives. The elderly, however, are actually emotional guardians for the young."

As he sees it, grandparents fill five key roles as (1) living ancestors and family historians; (2) models for grandchildren to emulate; (3) nurturers, especially when children are sick or when families are experiencing difficulties; (4) teachers and mentors; and (5) "wizards" and fantasy figures.

But what about those golden retirement years in Florida that some grandparents envision when the children "leave the nest?" This is a myth, claims Kornhaber: "Grandparents dream about moving, but they're afraid to, even though they're missing out on so much."

Kornhaber even goes so far as to caution parents about uprooting their families as part of corporate transfers. "They should stay put," as he sees it. "A few thousand dollars is not worth the emotional price paid."

For those grandparents concerned about closer contact with their grandchildren, Kornhaber is encouraged that they now have control rights which has been upheld in court.

Apparently his views are catching on, according to officials in the greeting card industry.

One found it significant that parents were buying cards for their own grandparents and their children's grandparents. He also noted the emergence of a minor, baby boom which means a lot more grandparents.

PUPS enrollment set Sept. 14-18

The Vocational-Child Care classes at Granite City High School South are accepting applications for enrollment in PUPS (Parents Utilizing Pre-kindergarten Skills) preschool program.

At this time openings are available for infants and toddlers and three- and four-year old pre-schoolers. Brothers and sisters of the three- and four-year-old pre-schoolers enrolled in PUPS take precedence over other infants and toddlers who wish to enroll in PUPS.

Parents interested in enrolling their children can register Monday, Friday, Sept. 14-18, in Room X465, which is located in the high school wing of Coolidge Junior High School. A nominal fee to cover snacks and materials and supplies is charged.

Is there life on Mars?

By PROF. F. HENRY FIRCHING

Science & Technology

We are all aware of the planet Mars and have heard stories about Martians visiting earth. In the thirties, Orson Wells scared many people with his dramatic radio presentation of "War of the Worlds." Listeners actually believed the earth was being invaded by Martians from Mars.

Using facts and figures, scientific scrutiny provides a way to ascertain the real situation. Some of the first insights were provided by a study of possible habitable planets in our galaxy. In this study, one of the necessary requirements for life was assumed to be the presence of liquid water on a planet.

This means that a planet would have to be of a certain size and at a certain distance from its star in order to receive a suitable amount of energy. In general, it would have to be somewhat similar to earth's situation with respect to our sun.

If this criteria is applied to Mars, it fails miserably. The limits for a habitable planet, liquid water is not found on Mars. Even though this one analysis is not enough to eliminate Mars as the abode of life, it does indicate that Mars is not too likely a candidate for life.

Recently, a series of space probes have been sent to Mars, and in 1976 two spacecraft landed on the Mars surface. These two landers, equipped with cameras and other instrumentation, touched down about 4,600 miles from one another. Nevertheless, both encountered similar environments.

The cameras showed rocks strewn across the landscape with wind-blown dust and sand scattered between the rocks. No trees, no bushes, no leaves, no grass, and no tracks were seen by the cameras. No trace of any life form or activity was available.

Over the past five years, these cameras have been turned on and off several times. Even though dust and sand grains have been moved by the wind, nothing pertaining to life has ever been seen.

In addition to the photographs, these spacecraft performed several biological experiments in an attempt to find microscopic life. No indication of life was found. In fact, no organic molecules were found in either location. This complete failure to find any indication of possible life on Mars has drastically lowered the hope that life exists there.

Further information has been provided by other space vehicles orbiting Mars. The entire surface has been photographed. Any object the size of a football field could be detected. Yet these photographic surveys have shown absolutely nothing that could be attributed to an intelligent society. No cities, no highways or canals, no agriculture, no dams or mines, and no lights have been found. Mars is a complete blank with respect to a technological society. Nothing that could be considered to be the product of a society has been seen anywhere on the planet.

This total lack of information shows rather decisively that a complex society does not exist on Mars. It cannot be the source of any spacecraft that will visit earth. Furthermore, the higher forms of life are

Fighting the battle of the bulge

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK

Extension Adviser

Many dieters think that skipping meals, especially breakfast is a good way to lose weight. However, doing so may make winning the "battle of the bulge" more difficult rather than easier.

Often, the weight-conscious will then eat more than they need later in the day, making more calories rather than needed.

Since September is National Better Breakfast Month, this is a good time to get out of the habit of skipping breakfast—and the dieter's trap of skipping needed nutrition and then eating more later in the day.

During dieting, calorie intake is limited so foods that are eaten need to be nutrient-dense. In other words, serving per serving or even ounce per ounce, what a dieter eats must give him or her more protein, minerals and vitamins than what a non-dieter eats since the person who isn't on a diet will eat more and is likely to make up for quality because of the larger quantity.

Human and animal studies indicate that eating only one or two large meals a day encourages the body to accumulate more fat than it would if smaller, more frequent meals equal in the amount of calories were eaten.

The best plan for healthy weight loss requires maintaining a given number of calories between meals and snacks.

If you've been a chronic dieter, skipper for some time, it may take a while for you to get back in the habit of eating a regular, well-balanced breakfast.

The breakfast habit can be acquired in progressive stages. Try having a glass of milk, juice or a piece of fruit at first. Eat what would be considered part of a good breakfast—cereal and milk with toast or an egg and bacon with toast—later on in the morning as a snack.

Then, as you get used to that routine, try adding other foods to your early morning menu. Having a complete and balanced breakfast will soon become a routine—and a healthy habit that helps you start your day right—and with a fighting chance against that "battle of the bulge."

Medieval Faire at BAC

Once upon a time there were princes and kings, noble knights and fair maidens. Chivalry reigned. That storybook will be re-opened at Belleville Area College during the weekend when the school holds its first Medieval Faire.

Entertainment and food of the Middle Ages are planned from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 12, and Sunday, Sept. 13, in front of the college's main campus building, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville.

"It will be a fight to the death," said Middle Ages enthusiast Larry Bell of the planned jousts. Bell, a resident of Fairview Heights, was quick to add that the "weapons" are made of raton or foam.

He is a member of the Metro-East chapter of the Society for Creative Anachronisms, sponsors of the faire along with the BAC Student Activities Office. The society, which is international, was organized to study the Middle Ages, then bring the best of that period to life in today's world.

"You grow up reading romance novels, Robin Hood and Prince Valiant in the newspaper every week," said Cindi Landers, also a member of the society and a resident of Fairview Heights. The BAC faire will give society members and the public a chance to do just that.

Medieval tournaments—fighting exhibitions—will be from 10 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 3 p.m. each day. If conditions are right, experienced fighters will "wax those" from the audience to try a few swings of the swords, maces or other weapons, which are harmless replicas.

Arts and crafts to be demonstrated and sold will include spinning wheels, yarn dyeing, calligraphy, dragon banners, wood crafts, hand-painted plaster drafts, handmade pine furniture, decorative painting, pottery, leather crafts, toys, stained glass, macramé, quilts, jewelry, quilts, crocheting and ceramics.

Rapport between Weber and family services improving

Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber says his department has reached an "uneasy truce" with the Department of Children and Family Services, which Weber sharply criticized last month.

Weber had gone so far as to initiate a grand jury investigation of the DCF's for the way it handled incest cases.

Weber said he had received some reports on the possible mishandling of incest cases before, but that the investigation was finally spurred by a recent case involving a 12-year-old child.

The child's step-father was under grand jury indictment for taking sexual liberties with the girl.

Weber became angry when the mother of the child was put back into the home before the trial. He said there were strong indications the mother persuaded the child not to testify against her step-father.

The man was later given a probationary sentence on a reduced charge through plea bargaining.

Since Weber instigated the grand jury investigation of the DCF's, he said his department has seen some changes. The investigation is still continuing, however, he said.

"We've already noted some very positive results," he said. "We've had more cooperation with this office."

Weber said he is now receiving more reports than in the past. He said the DCF's also replaced its court liaison officer in Madison County.

"It's certainly hopeful," a spokesman for the DCF's said about improved relations between the two offices. "Time will tell. We did work out an agreement on how we will cooperate and share information."

The spokesman said that when the DCF's was informed of Weber's anger three weeks ago, director Greg Coler went to Edwardsville to talk with Weber personally.

One of the agreements reached between the two, the spokesman said, was to upgrade the court liaison position from a non-management position to one with more authority.

Railway wants to sell Delaware line

Norfolk and Western Railway has signed a letter of intent for sale of the common stock of Delaware and Hudson Railway to Guilford Transportation Industries. Guilford has already purchased the Maine Central Railroad and agreed to purchase the Boston and Maine.

To be consummated, the transaction would require approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, as well as the United States Railway Association, a governmental agency that has made loans to DH. It also is conditioned on approval by the ICC of Guilford's proposed acquisition of the Boston and Maine.

DH was acquired by a Norfolk subsidiary, Dereco, in 1968, by order of the ICC, as a condition of NW's consolidation with the Nickel Plate and Wabash railroads. The letter of intent provides that NW lease up to 25 locomotives to DH upon execution of the formal acquisition agreement, and that NW in turn rent up to 200 coal hopper cars from DH.

SCOTT ASSIGNMENT FOR MARCUS WHITE
Air Force Reserve Airman Marcus A. White, son of Cecil E. Wilson of 1107 Douglas St., Venice, and of Izabella A. Robinson of 1207 Market St., Venice, has graduated from the Air Force Reserve Airman's maintenance specialist course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

Graduates learned maintenance procedures for aircraft runways, roads, parking areas and railroad tracks. White will now serve at Scott Air Force Base, Belleville. He is a 1979 graduate of Madison High School.

St. John United bazaar, festival planned Oct. 18

St. John United Church of Christ, 2801 Nampoki Road, has announced Oct. 18 as the date for their fifth annual Fall Festival, according to Ruth McDonald, general chairman of the all-church event sponsored by the Stewardship Committee.

Craft items and homemade delicacies will again predominate the bazaar segment of the festival according to Linda Sturman and Sara Bryant, bazaar co-chairmen.

The festival committee decided to change the bill-of-fare from chicken to an all-you-can-eat sausage supper this year, according to Jim Singleton, sausage supper chairman. Tickets are $4 for adults, $1.75 for children under 10, and children under 5 are free.

Again this year, the St. John Brotherhood will man the old-fashioned Butcher Shoppe headed by Jim Engleke and Don Robertson. The shoppe will feature homemade headcheese, liver sausage, and blood sausage at $2.10 per pound, pork sausage at $2 per pound, and whole hams at $1.60 per pound. Country bacon will also be sold. Quantities will be limited, but advance orders for meals may be made by calling Jim Engleke (451-9480) or Don Robertson (876-0158) after Sept. 17.

Study protection for women

The SUE Parking and Traffic Committee, which approved a proposal presented by Women For Women, SUE Police, and SUE Rape Center, requesting that women be given priority in purchase of fall night-time green parking decals to better insure the safety of women at SUE.

This policy originally established in the fall of 1980, after occurrences of violence against women, is now being re-addressed by these organizations as a short-term solution until they can offer more effective long-term solutions for women's safety at SUE.

Liz Needy, chairman of Women For Women's "Safety Committee" stated, "The groups are doing a 'Needs Assessment Survey' during the SUE fall class registration to determine the safety factor and some long-term solutions for women's safety at SUE. Though they feel the priority purchase of green decals for women and the establishment of a safety patrol at SUE has helped to alleviate the problem, safety, they also feel efforts are needed to alleviate the problem further."

The green night-time decals can be purchased at the Rendleman Building, in the Bursar's Office, 5-5 p.m., Monday through Friday, for $5, from now through Sept. 23. These decals allow night students to park close-in to campus after 4 p.m. Persons may call 692-3680 for more information.

Terrorist threats to U.S.

By JOEL S. LISKER
(Editor's note: Lisker is a former FBI Special Agent and later a top official of the Justice Department's Internal Security Division. Since January, 1981, he has been chief counsel and staff director of the U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Security and Terrorism. This text is condensed from his recent address to Americanism Educational League in Los Angeles.)

The newly formed U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Security and Terrorism has held various, recent hearings unrelated to, or oversight. The first of these, particularly attracted speculation in the press linking the work of the Subcommittee to "witch-hunting" activities of decades past.

The link between international terrorism and national security is clear. We have too few friends these days to be indifferent to the prospect of a friendly government being brought to its knees through the efforts of terrorists employing all of the bloody instruments of their trade. These are the concerns we intend the Subcommittee address.

Moreover, it should have been clear to those attending the hearings already conducted that there was general agreement among the witnesses on the degree and nature of Soviet involvement, which is major, but which falls short of a "masterminding" effort from the Kremlin.

The speculation in the press concerning the course that the Subcommittee would take obscured the important findings of the hearings, including the fact that the Soviet Union has played and continues to play a significant role in international terrorism, according to authoritative witnesses.

This should have come as no surprise to those who have followed the activities of the Soviet Union in the world scene since World War II. Having achieved dominance in Eastern Europe, it has continued to apply pressure in those parts of the world where even a modicum of freedom has survived.

Its capacity for mischief is patently unlimited. The scale of its military buildup, which exceeds any reasonable estimate of that required in support of legitimate Soviet defense needs, is matched by continuing efforts to undermine United States influence throughout the world. There is no reason to doubt that the Soviet Union would employ terrorism to advance these efforts.

The possibility of all-out terrorist attack on American institutions should engage our closest attention. Certainly the United States is not invulnerable to terrorist tactics. But far from considering methods to cope with the threat, we have scarcely recognized the problem. I would observe, passing that we have yet to develop even a language of our own that furthers our understanding of the threat and enables us to discuss it in terms widely understood by the American people.

Terrorism has differing meanings to many people. At this time there is no precise definition. The word is commonly used to describe any act of violence by political extremists and thereby encompasses terrorism, at least in time or another all the victims of terrorism have been led to believe that there was no threat — "It can't happen here."

Today the FBI has an investigative interest in some eight domestic groups which advocate and practice terrorism as an instrument of racism, anti-establishment, or pro-independence politics, and the FBI investigates others where there is clear evidence of foreign domination and direction and, separately, classified foreign counter-intelligence guidelines.

Terrorist activity in the world remains at a very high level, a fact that indicates the possibility of a spillover

Among the most dangerous of the terrorist organizations now operating in the United States and its territories is the FALN. The FALN is an acronym for Fuerzas Armadas de Liberación. I can cite many examples to illustrate the threat to what you may have read in the press, we do have serious terrorist activity occurring within the United States. However, I think it is important to put the problem into perspective.

In August 1980 an explosion rocked a railroad station in Bologna, Italy, killing 83 and injuring 200. In September 1980 a bomb exploded inside a crowded convention center in Manila, injuring eight persons, including seven Americans, and narrowly missing President Marcos and the American Ambassador.

Moreover, we have not yet experienced incidents of this magnitude in the United States. However, we must remember that the potential for terrorism is not limited to those who are some who have suggested that terrorism is a non-issue in the United States, that the threat is ethereal and illusory. I do not share these views. Soviet, at least in time or another all the victims of terrorism have been led to believe that there was no threat — "It can't happen here."

Today the FBI has an investigative interest in some eight domestic groups which advocate and practice terrorism as an instrument of racism, anti-establishment, or pro-independence politics, and the FBI investigates others where there is clear evidence of foreign domination and direction and, separately, classified foreign counter-intelligence guidelines.

Terrorist activity in the world remains at a very high level, a fact that indicates the possibility of a spillover effect in this country. In 1979, according to a CIA report, terrorists killed 589 persons, many of them Americans, a record number.

International terrorism also presents an additional worry: the potential for the use of high-technology weaponry, which, of course, suggests the possibility of the use of portable nuclear devices. As far back as 1973, Arab terrorists in Rome were caught with Soviet-made, surface-to-air missiles. This last fact raised the whole question of Soviet surrogate support for terrorism.

Ill conceived policies of détente and misunderstanding about so-called "peaceful coexistence" for some years have made American spokesmen in world affairs hesitate to discuss the Soviet role in terrorism. Upurge. Democratic governments rarely have taken punitive action against states which have supported international terrorism. However, we now see a welcome change in the American philosophy that has been expressed in President Reagan's and Secretary of State Haig's determination to resist terrorism.

In furtherance of this effort, we must improve the capabilities of our law enforcement and intelligence agencies. This may be accomplished in part by lifting restrictions which have for too long fettered these agencies.

We must re-evaluate our crisis management capability. We must seek to pull together and coordinate responsibilities for dealing with terrorist incidents which are not fragmented among a number of agencies. We must develop a rapid deployment force which is capable of achieving results under the most adverse conditions; and finally, we must keep a significant Federal focus on the issue, for to do otherwise will, in my view, create the potential for disaster should a major incident occur within this country.

Boy Scout Troop 7 plans active year

Boy Scout Troop 7 of St. Joseph's Catholic Church has formulated plans for the 1981-82 charter year, which begins Nov. 1, 1981.

The Troop 7 outdoor program will include a total of 26 overnight activities and camping adventures, including: camping adventures—Barn camping adventure in December, Scoutmaster retreat in February, Army Depot camping adventure and spring camporee in May, Horseshoe Lake camping adventure in September, and fall camporee in October.

Hikes—Gateway West Historical Trail, Granite City night hike, Grafton-Marquette trail, Beaumont trail, Jefferson Barracks Historical trail, and a bike hike.

A number of other outings activities are also planned.

Courts of Honor and Communion masses are scheduled for November, February, May and August.

The Troop plans two service projects for the year, and a service project for senior citizens of the community.

Also approved for the upcoming charter year was "Adventure '82," which will take Troop 7 scouts to Washington, D.C. on the return trip, to the World's Fair of 1982, at Knoxville, Tennessee.

To cover expenses of "Adventure '82," the Troop plans several fund-raising projects, including, an aluminum can drive, a paper drive, Santa's Workshop and the Scout's Second Annual Boy Scout Circus, "Circus '82." The St. Joseph Youth Ministry financial committee will also support the troop.

Scouts recently elected their Troop patrol leadership officers for the upcoming year: Kevin Williamson, senior patrol leader; Cobie, patrol leader; Jeff Kittel, Flaming Arrow patrol leader; Mark Brazel, Panther patrol leader, Frank Scaturro.

Scoutmaster Brother Robert Manzer appointed Steve Kuzmierczak as junior assistant scoutmaster before the elections.

Senior Patrol Leader Kevin Williamson will soon appoint his staff, which consists of assistant patrol leader, quartermaster, scribe, troop historian, bugler and chaplain aide.

Each patrol leader will soon appoint an assistant patrol leader.

The following will make up the adult leadership of the Troop: Mrs. Jeanne Brandon, chairman; Mrs. Dianna Markovich, treasurer; Mrs. Joyce Brazel and Mrs. Ann Kuzmierczak, financial affairs, and Robert Matosian, publicity.

Incarceration period for POWs is shortened

Former prisoners of war who were incarcerated for as short a period as 30 days may now have certain disabilities accepted as having been incurred in service without having to furnish medical proof of the fact, according to the Veterans Administration.

The 30-day incarceration period (it used to be 90 days) is contained in legislation recently enacted by Congress, which also waives the two-year waiting period following service during which certain psychological disorders must manifest themselves in order to be service connected.

These and other changes are contained in the "Prisoner of War Status Care Benefits Act of 1981," which was signed into law by President Reagan on August 14.

The new law is designed to meet the needs of the estimated 100,000 former prisoners of war. A Joint Veterans Administration-Department of Defense study in 1980 found these veterans have higher incidences of physical and psychological disabilities because of confinement, that was characterized by starvation diets, lack of medical care and inhumane treatment.

Former prisoners of war also may have experienced difficulties in establishing claims for service connected disabilities due to inadequate repatriation examinations.

The legislation also creates an Advisory Committee on Former Prisoners of War which will make biennial reports to the VA Administrator, and to Congress on problems in the areas of compensation, health care and rehabilitation which affect this group.

September brings many chores in the garden

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser

September can be a profitable and enjoyable month for the gardener. It is harvest time for many fruits and vegetables. It's also time for making a few last plans for the garden for next year's garden. Some highlights for the month are:

Harvest fruits and vegetables. Early September finds grapes, apples, pears, plums, tomatoes, melons, beans, and many other crops maturing. This is the time of the year when harvests show the results of good culture. If you're not satisfied with the quality or yield this year, resolve to do better in variety selection or growing next year.

Plant some late season vegetables. With good fall growing conditions, there is time to plant and harvest snap beans (50-55 days), beets (52-58 days), leaf lettuce (45 days), radishes (22-25 days), spinach (37-45 days). If unfavorable growing conditions delay maturity and harvest, a little seed and labor will be lost.

Keep tomato plants growing. Water, nutrients, and pesticides, especially those for disease control, are needed to keep healthy, fruitful tomato plants until frost.

One or two pest sprays at 10-day intervals should be all that is needed if the water and soil fertility are good.

Harvest herbs. Cool, dry September days are ideal for drying leafy plants. Pick the leaves on stems when the dew is off the plant. Wash if the leaves are mud splattered. Otherwise, just tie 10-12 stems in a bundle and hang in an airy, warm, dry place.

Cut or kill weeds in the garden. Do this before they make seeds and you will have fewer weeds to fight next year.

Don't rush the pumpkin harvest. Some early-planted pumpkins have turned orange and appear ready for picking. However, barring adverse weather conditions, the live vines in your garden are a better storage place than the porch or basement. Once the vines die, cut the stem, and store pumpkins in a cool, dry place.

Tip-layers black raspberries and thornless blackberries for plant increases. The growing tip of shoots can be covered with an inch or two of soil so that new plants will be available for planting next spring.

Build up the compost pile with garden debris. All the expended plant material in the garden can be fed into the compost pile for decomposition.

Pick apples when mature. This is usually when the ground or under-color turns yellow or creamy. It is also about the time that stems of healthy fruit separate easily from the spur. For Southwestern Illinois, this period is early September for Jonathan, and late September for Red Delicious, and late September for Golden Delicious.

Sow a grainure crop. Rye, annual ryegrass, or oats are good drops to sow on vacant ground to give soil protection, smother weeds, and increase organic matter. Don't prune fruit trees. This is the time of year that leaves are feeding the roots, so the only pruning that should be done is the removal of broken branches and limbs.

Verify peach borer control. Check peach trees for gummy areas containing sawdust. The sawdust would indicate that borers are present and must be dug out with a knife or straw. Gumming without borer residue probably is cold or physical injury, and nothing can be done now.

Watch for San Jose scale on fruit trees. If you find small red spots on the skin or if you can see a gray scale on the twigs, mark the trees of plants for extra-thorough coverage with the dormant oil spray next February.

Check pumpkins, and squash for squash bugs. The grayish, black bugs and nymphs feed on both fruits and vines and can destroy the crop. They tend to hide under the plant during the day, so lift up the vines or fruit to check for their presence. Carbaryl sprays should do some good.

Keep vegetables harvested. Many vine crops such as cucumbers and squash, and plants such as broccoli and peppers, will continue to flower and fruit if kept harvested. That greater yields and longer harvest season can be expected.

Bill allows pensions, aid payments directly to bank

Governor James R. Thompson signed legislation Friday that allows pension or assistance payments to be directly deposited in the accounts of those persons receiving the checks.

"This will make payments to those who are not as mobile, such as some retirees, the aged, blind and disabled, more convenient. These electronic transactions are free from theft or loss due to mislaid mail," the governor said.

Senate Bill 299 authorizes the comptroller and the treasurer to make the pension or public aid payments directly to bank savings and loan association or credit union as specified by the recipient.

The measure was sponsored by Sen. David of Springfield and Representative Josephine Oblinger of Sherman.

The governor also signed House Bill 1963, which adds the subject of energy efficiency to examinations taken by architects for certification.

The bill was sponsored by Representative Diana LaGrange and Senator John Nimrod of Glenview.

Council vote kills luxury levy; now will seek sales tax

By GARY SCHNEIDER

"Another one bites the dust" was the theme of the Detroit Lions football team last year as they rolled over opponents — up until the Lions bit the dust.

"Another one bites the dust" could be the theme of the Granite City Council this summer as tax proposals after tax proposals have been struck down. Three more proposals to raise funds for the cash-starved city were voted down by the council during a special meeting Thursday night.

The council, on split votes, rejected proposals to raise the tax levy (the amount property owners will pay in real estate taxes next summer) from $2.5 million to $3 million, and voted down proposed taxes on food and beverages consumed in restaurants and taverns, on package liquor sales and on hotel and motel room rentals.

Instead, the council majority indicated a strong desire to pass a one percent sales tax later this month and see if it is challenged in the courts. On an informal motion, the aldermen voted to have City Attorney John Papa prepare an ordinance for increasing the state sales tax one cent, with the income that generates being reimbursed

The legality of the city imposing such a tax is complex and is addressed in a separate story today.

Alderman Paul Fisk pointed out before Tuesday night's meeting that a one percent sales tax, if it is implemented, would hit most families harder than a proposed one percent tax on electricity the council rejected Aug. 25. He estimated that the monthly food bill for most families is more than double their electric bills, so a one percent sales tax would hit them more than twice as hard as a one percent tax on electricity.

"On the council floor Thursday night," Fisk warned that a sales tax will not be popular with businesses, although it would "probably be good" for the city.

"When it does pass, the auto dealers are going to be here and say it is enough to drive somebody to Collinsville or Edwardsville or someplace else and they are going to be buying automobiles outside of Granite City," he said as an example and noted that the additional sales tax on a new automobile could be in the vicinity of $70.

The possibility of a city tax jeopardizing the competitive edge of city businesses was expressed to several aldermen by the representatives of six taverns at the meeting as they sought to have the proposed tax on liquor and restaurants rejected.

Alderman Casmer Skubish of the First Ward said that he had talked to Charlie Hester, operator of Charlie's Restaurant and Lounge and president of the Tavern Owners' Association. "He said a lot of people who run taverns oppose this tax. They would possibly be hurt by competing outside the city."

Indications that the council was likely to reject the tax on liquor and restaurants came early in Thursday's special meeting. The council, 7 to 7, rejected a three percent tax on motel room rentals of less than a week, even though it was amended to include a "sunset" provision that it would end when the city imposed a general sales tax.

Alderman Warren Decatur said he votes against the tax for several reasons, one being that with only two motels in town, the tax "wouldn't amount to a hill of beans."

He also said that the motel room tax were Aldermen Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward, Decatur and Sharon Parjak of the Fourth Ward, Jake Varadian of the Fifth Ward, Mac Warfield and Stephen Saltich of the Sixth Ward and Paul Ray Fisk of the Seventh Ward.

Voting in favor were Aldermen Skubish and Everett Morien of the First Ward, Fred "Pat" Schuman of the Second Ward and Paul Fisk of the Third Ward.

Absent were Carl Kittel of the Third Ward, Margaret Nann of the Fifth Ward and Mike Modrusic of the Seventh Ward.

Discussion of the proposed two percent tax on liquor stores, taverns and restaurants followed.

Alderman Skubish, who introduced the "sunset" provision for the motel tax, introduced an identical amendment for the liquor and restaurant tax, which was approved over the objections of Aldermen Whitmer and Fisk. Whitmer contended the city needs every cent it can get and should retain liquor and restaurant tax, even if a general sales tax is passed.

"We are going to need money to run this city and to pay firemen and policemen. $1.2 million is due back to the bank to pay off that loan. Any nickel or dime is going to help," Whitmer said.

He contended that the aldermen should have approved the motel, liquor and restaurant taxes at their last meeting, before owners of those establishments had time to respond. "I knew if these were not passed last Tuesday night, the tavern owners would be here tonight," Whitmer said.

Alderman Jake Varadian stated, "I agree we do need additional revenue to run our city. I feel very uncomfortable to have an ordinance enacted in a short time and not give people a chance to respond to it. I am going to vote no."

"I would prefer it be delayed until Nov. 1 so we can explore and put into effect a sales tax. Many of us have said we want some form of revenue which is equitable. The most equitable is a sales tax and we should implement it as soon as we possibly can," he said.

Whitmer disagreed, saying, "The sales tax is a catch all for the other people who go in to buy food. Who are you going to catch on this ordinance? Taverns and restaurants. That is much more palatable to me."

Varadian stated, "Whichever way we go, we are going to hurt someone. Perhaps we could have a provision (in a city sales tax) for retirees on low incomes."

Mayor Paul Schuler warned against rejecting the tax on liquor and restaurants, saying, "We put ourselves in a bad situation when we blocked out the utility tax that gave us an opportunity to raise funds." He warned that if a sales tax is found to be illegal or impossible to invoke by Jan. 1, "We're going to have to find $400,000 to cut. It will have to come primarily from jobs, because that's where most of our money goes."

"If I can tell you right now, there is going to be a whole mess of them (paid off) in four months, $400,000 — that's one fourth of the payroll (for the four month period)," Schuler warned.

After lengthy discussion, the restaurant and liquor tax was defeated on a 5 to 6 vote. Opposing the tax were Aldermen Decatur, Bowler, Warfield, Perjak, Varadian and Saltich.

The council then turned its attention toward passage of the tax levy ordinance for the 1981-82 fiscal year.

An effort to raise the tax levy (the amount of money to be raised by local property taxes collected next summer) from $2.5 million to $3 million failed when a motion by Alderman Decatur to raise the levy died for lack of a second.

A separate story on the tax levy appears in today's edition.

Price of school peace assessed in human terms as well as in dollars

By BILL WINTER

If everything in life involves a cost of some sort, what did the 1981 Granite City teachers' dispute and settlement cost? Several million dollars, borne by taxpayers; more than a week of uncertainty for teachers and students; and an as yet undetermined toll in several other respects.

Some of the answers can be given in specific terms. Others involve intangibles.

The fall term began belatedly last Thursday, Sept. 3. Next Tuesday, Sept. 15, the Board of Education will adopt a salary schedule covering the 1981-82 and 1982-83 years.

This year, teacher salary and retirement expenses will range from $13,653 ($12,947 base pay and $806 pension) for a new teacher with a bachelor degree, to $26,709 ($24,962 base and $1,747 pension) for a teacher in the 14th year of service and with a master degree including 190 college credit hours.

(Comparable figures in 1980-81 were $12,593 ($11,770 base and $823 pension) and $22,651 ($21,082 base and $1,569 pension).

Starting in August 1982, teacher pay in the same two categories will advance to a range of $15,124 ($14,144 base and $980 pension) to $29,176 ($27,270 base and $1,906 pension).

In the first year, the salary schedule change is estimated to cost $1,314,000, based on a raise of 10 percent for faculty members.

In the second year of the new agreement, with 94 percent added onto the higher pay level, the $1,314,000 again would be paid and possibly another $1,337,000. The combined increase for the two years would be $2,651,000 on top of 1980-81 costs, based on these projections and a 500-member faculty.

To reduce the amount of deficit spending, it is possible that the school district will trim the teaching staff below 590 in 1982-83.

To help make a smaller staff feasible, it is possible that the district might decide it has to close a high school, or one of the junior high schools, or one or more elementary schools. Three elementary schools were closed permanently two years ago.

Whatever reductions are made for the fall of 1982 will need to be decided by March or early in April.

In addition to acting on new salaries Sept. 15, the Board of Education that night will adopt its 1981-82 budget (set tentatively at $25,841,384 last month) with the employee raises yet to be added.

Also on Sept. 15, the board will enact a working agreement for teachers covering 1981-83. There are no re-opening clauses on any items at the midpoint of the two-year pact.

Medical-hospital insurance paid by the school system is to be provided not only to employees but also until age 65 to teachers qualified for and applying for retirement. This is to be outlined in a bargaining agreement, rather than the working agreement.

In the 42-article agreement, pay for extracurricular duties will remain frozen. Several items will be increased for several positions:

The agreement also covers negotiation procedures, meetings with administrators, after-school functions, non-teaching hours, scheduling of pupils, collection of money, vocational shop teachers, aures, identification cards, conferences, personnel records.

Also, tax-sheltered annuities, grievances, immunization, non-discrimination, instructions, improvement, after-school functions, normal teaching assignments, classroom substitution, homebound teachers, acting principals, athletic assistants, professional improvement, sabbatical leaves, accumulated earned absences, sick leave, emergency leave and summer school.

Most teachers at their ratification meeting Sept. 2 indicated they were pleased with the terms of the new agreement. Their approval was described as "overwhelming" but nevertheless "overwhelming."

Board of Education members have indicated their unanimous support for the terms of the agreement.

Both the board and the teachers voiced praise for the efforts of their negotiating teams, which sometimes met late into the night hours.

The main talks began Aug. 18 and continued almost daily through Aug. 31, with tentative accord reached Sept. 1. The previous agreement expired Aug. 11.

All who were affected by the negotiating process felt extra tension and the dispute was in progress, and nearly all breathed a sigh of relief when it was resolved.

Teachers were disappointed that their pay hopes could not be met without a delay in the fall term. The federation avoided calling a strike, leaving it up to individual teachers, and nearly all declined to work in the absence of a settlement.

The teachers met nearly every night during the work stoppage, conferring at either the Granite City Township Building or Madison's Engelbert Hall.

Many school children had been eager to begin classes in time and worried about the delay, particularly high school seniors intent on graduating this school year.

Pupils were inconvenienced to a degree by the scheduling of classes for Aug. 27 and the closing decision a few minutes after they reported. It was decided to call off classes "until further notice" because of the absence of about 565 of the teachers.

School Superintendent B. J. Davis appeared to be as concerned as anyone about the dispute. But said he had learned to be somewhat philosophical about such matters. He now hopes all can concentrate on providing an effective instructional program.

The superintendent had had direct experience in School District Nine negotiations but in recent years has not participated, although remaining in close contact with the procedures and general approach.

Negotiators for the school district were five other administrators—Frank Kraus, Harold Hillman, Terry Salen, Warren Collins and Mike Sikora—plus School Board Members Monroe Worthen and George Moore and Attorney Harold Baker.

The negotiating team for Local 743, consisted of President Shirley Stoll, First Vice-President Ben Schuttenhofer, Recording Secretary Loretta Woodright, Treasurer Larry Diak and Attorney Raymond Freark, along with two representatives of the local's administrative and policy committees, Chairman Russell Chappell and Member Larry Talbert.

Officers named as participants in the district's request for an injunction against the work stoppage included Second Vice-President William Watson and Corresponding Secretary Virginia Sanders.

Freark in his dismissal motion argued that the district had not conducted itself with "clean hands"—a legal concept that, if proved, would have diminished the board's legal basis for compelling attendance by teachers.

The veteran attorney was prepared to call board members and administrators to the witness stand in an attempt to cast doubt on the propriety of the school officials' tactics, the sincerity of their attitude, and the accuracy of their fiscal reports.

Whether Chief Circuit Judge Joseph Barr would have issued a permanent injunction or rejected the request is unknown, but he made it amply clear that he did not want to do either if he could avoid doing so.

Both sides saw merit in this. The dispute eventually was going to end, anyway, with its terms probably decided across the bargaining table. It was reasoned by the judge.

They conceded this was true. And they saw truth in Judge Barr's observation that a full-fledged legal confrontation might create bitterness that would take years to dissipate, worsening the climate for operating good schools.

One participant remarked, "In this kind of a fight, we can in effect start swinging at them—and do some damage. But if we do keep in mind that everybody including us will get hurt."

Anger did develop on both sides, some of it successfully vented on the night of Aug. 31, when the board spoke with Pres. Stoll and Freark and when the Local 743 negotiators spoke with

Can city pass sales tax?

Can Granite City legally impose a sales tax?

That is a question aldermen, attorneys and city officials are debating and will continue to debate for the next few weeks as the city seeks ways to support its red ink budget.

At least $400,000 more must be raised this fiscal year to come close to meeting the city's budget, and that does not include anticipated increases in city salaries, the cost of garbage collection or other increases, city officials have indicated.

On an informal motion, the aldermen voted to have City Attorney John Papa prepare an ordinance for increasing the state sales tax one cent, with the income that generates being reimbursed to the city by the state.

School Board Pres. Thomas Miosky and Baker.

The teacher negotiators were incensed by a June news article. It related that board members at a public meeting had speculated that a teacher strike apparently was under discussion even though the board had not yet made an offer.

An officer and a member of the local sought to prevent a photographer from standing on a sidewalk while he took a picture through windows of a meeting of teachers Aug. 30. And a mistaken reference Aug. 31 about the nature of a courthouse gathering, increased teachers' displeasure.

Public opinion about the dispute was divided. Many people commented that teaching is a difficult profession deserving generous compensation.

Others felt too much money was being sought in a time of recession and "red ink," when some persons in the nation are getting raises, others are receiving no raises, still others are accepting pay cuts and many are out of work.

Teachers countered by saying, "A loaf of bread costs us just as much as it costs anyone else." They believe they are victimized by inflation after ratifying a two-year agreement in 1979, an agreement they have never signed.

Board members became "hot under the collar" when a public statement by the federation Aug. 25 appeared to challenge the district's financial estimates and trustworthiness.

Some citizens saw in it a replay of 1980 and 1979 disagreements in which teachers "went over the heads" of board members and told taxpayers that citizens and school employees could not rely on what the board was saying.

The classic stance for the federation appears to be the assertion that funds are available for the amount of raises sought, but that through tricky bookkeeping the revenue has been hidden from view.

A succession of school financial officers has denied that any sleight-of-hand is practiced.

Real "magic" may be necessary for the district to avoid a big increase in its operating debt, however—despite the prospect of some layoffs next summer and despite hopes for an earlier property tax collection and distribution cycle.

Everyone—administrators, board members, school employees, students, residents and taxpayers—would be harmed if the school district finds itself resorting to cumulative borrowing.

A temporary loan pay bill while late taxes are being awaited is described by education authorities as a far different and less dangerous problem than the creation of a cost base that exceeds all available income.

In the latter circumstance, debt grows each year and, soon become unwieldy, with interest costs adding to the burden along with the accumulated principal of the loans.

As teachers, administrators and school principals know, rapidly escalating debt principal—stemming from a basic imbalance in revenue and obligations—would violate the principle of fiscal soundness.

Granite City public schools appear, to many persons, to be trapped in this kind of pattern.

Optimists reply that, with many Illinois school systems in even worse shape, rescuers may come on the way in the early 1980s.

Governor Thompson and President Reagan would do something to keep our schools from collapsing," they predict. And if it is not bad enough, property owners are reconsidering their no-tax-hike attitude.

Can city pass?

Bi-State bus service.

On most items, except food, the store collects a 5% cent tax per $1 purchase, including four cents for the state, one for the local government and a quarter-cent for transit, he explained.

Yung said he believes that Granite City, under current law, is collecting the maximum Retailer Occupation Tax and may not increase it. A cash flow worksheet given to the aldermen earlier this month indicates that the city expects to receive $1,892,275 from that one-cent Retailer Occupation Tax this fiscal year.

The bottom line is that if Granite City wants to impose a new sales tax, which would receive money in time to avoid a large deficit at the end of this fiscal year, it probably would have to set up its own machinery to collect and enforce the tax.

Mayor Paul Schuler predicts that if city waits for the legislature to approve collection of the tax by the state, it may be into the next fiscal year before the city begins to see any income from that tax, and that might require further employee cuts and extensive borrowing next spring and summer to keep the city solvent.

Local collection of the tax could pose "a practical hindrance," according to Attorney Papa, who said he is still studying what method of collection he should include in the ordinance.

If the Department of Revenue would furnish the city with a complete list of the amount of Retailer Occupation Tax each business pays each month, the city then could either compare that with the tax funds that business actually paid the city at the end of that month or could bill each business for the proper amount when the Department of Revenue's figures are received.

David Nolan, an administrative aide to Mayor Paul Schuler, said the Department of Revenue has been very reluctant to supply the city with such figures and the city would probably have to live under the freedom of information act, which would take a great deal of time and effort.

Even if such a list could be supplied by the Department of Revenue, it would undoubtedly be several months after the taxes were paid. Currently, it takes about two months after the state collects the sales tax to distribute the money to the various cities.

If such lists cannot be supplied, which is more likely, the city would send each business a form, similar to the state Retailer's Occupation Tax form, to ask the businesses to list their gross receipts and the amount of the tax each month. That form would be returned to the city with the payment of the city's sales tax.

Comparing the amount of the one percent rebated to the city from the state Retailer's Occupation Tax with the receipts from the one percent city sales tax should show whether businesses had paid the correct tax to the city, Nolan said.

If it is suspected that a business is not paying its fair share of the city tax, the mayor or his authorized representative could be empowered to enter any business and examine its financial books, Nolan said.

If that fails to resolve the question whether the city is paying its fair share, the city can hire an outside auditor to come in and audit the books of that business, he noted, adding that Peoria has been using that method. "I would think it would be advisable to have such an auditor," Nolan said.

Papa pledged he will have a city sales tax ordinance on each alderman's desk at the next council meeting, Sept. 15. He said it will tax everything currently taxed by the state Retailer's Occupation Tax, but the percentage of the city tax will probably be left blank, to be filled in by the aldermen.

If the council should decide to exempt food, drugs, grocery stores or others from the tax, the ordinance could be amended to include that.

The method of collection, however, will have to be determined before the ordinance is drafted and Papa said that he is investigating collection methods. "I hope to avoid the (local collection), because it still looms as a practical hindrance, as I see it," he commented.

Nolan said he believes the city could collect the tax without hiring new employees, other than possibly putting an auditor on retainer.

At some time in the future, if enabling legislation is passed by the state, collection and disbursement of the tax to the city then could be taken over by the Department of Revenue, Papa indicated.

Watch out for the Brown Recluse and Black Widow

By RONALD CORNWELL

County Farm Adviser

The Brown Recluse spider is one of two poisonous spiders found in Southern Illinois. The other spider is the Black Widow.

Black Widows usually are found outdoors in sheds, garages, rubbish piles and other areas. Only the female will bite.

She can be identified by a red "hour glass" design on its abdomen. Otherwise, she is all black.

The Brown Recluse can be found in any room of a home, usually concealed in cracks. It is chocolate brown with a dark fiddle-shaped mark behind its head.

The Brown Recluse spider is normally a timid spider and stays in dark, secluded areas of the home and other buildings.

During the late summer and fall, the spider tends to move around. This is often the time of year the spiders are found. They tend to stay out of sight the rest of the year.

Both the male and female of the Brown Recluse spider will bite. In some cases, the bite is not noticed immediately and in other cases the pain is immediate.

To control spiders around the home, use diazinon as an outside foundation spray. In the hofes, baseboards, cracks and door thresholds can be treated with ready-to-use sprays containing diazinon, dursban or baygon.

Rubbish piles and other areas that can harbor spiders should be cleaned. Shake and inspect clothing that has been hanging in the closet for long periods of time before wearing it.

PREGNANCY CLASSES

Early pregnancy classes are now being offered by St. Elizabeth's Medical Center for women who are 1-5 months pregnant and plan to deliver at St. Elizabeth's.

Some of the information that is covered includes nutrition during and after pregnancy, body conditioning, breast-feeding, body changes during pregnancy, and fetal development. Any women interested in registering or for further information may call 798-3040. The next series of classes are scheduled to begin on Wednesday, Sept. 23.

Phone to report 'snow days' and other school data

night to obtain an automatic telephone answering service to expand the school system's ability to communicate with the public.

A machine known as Ansafone Model 747 will be purchased for $391, and about $130 will be spent for tapes and for devices to attach the equipment to present telephone lines.

School Supt. B. J. Davis commented, "If we had this in service during the past week, we could have provided more information to the public on the opening and closing of schools and could have answered many of the questions that were raised."

"In addition to the immediate use that we would have had for this device, it is also projected that we could use this to answer the many calls we have regarding inclement weather conditions, to provide messages to the public on school affairs, dates for entrance requirements, school calendars, and a multitude of information requested by the public."

Superintendent of the school district administrative staff said the plan will enhance the school system's community relations.

"The telephone service will be activated when the board office is closed. It will transmit regularly prepared recorded announcements of public interest and also will allow callers to record questions and comments."

With the opening of the 1981-82 school term delayed last week, the switchboard at the board office handled 770 calls on Aug. 26, 28 and 27 related to school opening decisions, it was noted.

Muskrat commented, "This message on snow days with an obvious office for the answering service. There will be an opportunity to share such positive aspects as major athletic events and accomplishments."

"It will provide an additional mode of communication with our patrons, on a two-way basis. A similar unit is being used by the Granite City Public Library in its dial-a-story program."

"Our equipment will feature a variable-length announcement of up to three minutes. Standard removable cassettes will permit distribution or retention of the information."

In other business, the board accepted the retirements, effective immediately, of Helen G. Wigger of the Nameoki School cafeteria staff and four members of the Granite City High School South cafeteria staff: Dolores Sanders, Zita Bequette, Dorcas Schmitt and Mildred Nance.

A job description is to be developed for a custodial supervisory position.

Matt Gasparovic will transport local deaf children to daily classes at the Greenville campus of Collinsville High School.

The board chose President Thomas Miosky as delegate and Secretary David Sluts as alternate delegate to an Illinois Association of School Boards assembly to be held in November.

Harold E. Briggs, Madison County regional superintendent of schools, notified the board he had approved all 18 school buildings as adequate and sufficient for the conduct of classes in the 1981-82 school year.

The board authorized continued use of temporary classrooms for the federal Title I instruction program at Logan School. Architect Henry Gabriel has certified that the structures pose no safety problems.

For $5,100, the district will replace a ten-year-old machine that is employed to inspect and record films utilized in the audio-visual program at various schools.

The new machine will be able to clean the motion picture film about 700 pictures. There are about 700 films, valued at $300 to $400 each, obtained over the years through the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, the Title IV-B program and local funds.

Increase in GC levy is rejected

Granite City will collect the same amount in property taxes next summer as it collected this summer, the city council determined at a special meeting Thursday night.

A levy of $2.5 million (the amount to be collected by local property taxes matching last year's tax levy, was approved by the council, despite a lengthy discussion of the city's worsening financial condition and the need for more income.

A motion to increase the tax levy from $2.5 million to $3 million for the current fiscal year, 1981-82, was made by Alderman Warren Decatur of the Fourth Ward, chairman of the council's finance committee, but after a long pause, Mayor Paul Schuler declared that the motion had died for lack of a second.

Before making his motion, Decatur stated, "In the last seven years, we have given more than 50 percent increases to our employees and our tax base has gone up very little. I don't know how we can keep raising salaries without raising taxes and keep paying them (the employees)," Decatur said.

Mayor Paul Schuler noted before the vote was taken that if the council wished to levy $3 million for the city's $13,473,314 budget which is to be supported by local property taxes, they would have the opportunity anytime before Dec. 31 to abate the extra taxes, should another form of income be found.

Schuler noted that $500,000 of the levy could be rebated by the end of the calendar year, since the tax would not be collected until next July, August or September. He also noted that the city plans to rebate a portion of the tax on the bonds for the 19th Street overpass next year.

Decatur then made his motion to increase the levy to $3 million, but found he was alone in his feelings that the greater tax should be levied, unless another source of income was found.

The council's decision indicated strong preference to a city-wide sales tax, rather than higher property taxes.

Some food stamp rule changes become effective on Oct. 1

Major changes in food stamp eligibility rules and benefits will begin taking effect Oct. 1, according to Mary C. Jarratt, assistant secretary of agriculture for food and community services.

"The changes, required by the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1981, are aimed at saving $1.5 billion in federal costs for the food stamp program in fiscal year 1982 which begins Oct. 1," she said.

"The new rules must be implemented swiftly to achieve the projected savings and operate the program within the amount Congress appropriated to avoid across the board benefit reductions."

Jarratt said the first package of rules, which will be ready for public comment next month and take effect October 1 will:

- remove higher income households from the program, or reduce their benefits;
- drop strikers from the program;
- prorate the initial month's benefits of new recipients from the date of application;
- delay cost of living adjustments in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's "thrifty food plan" used for calculating food stamp benefits; and
- delay and reduce cost of living adjustments in the deductions allowed from gross income in determining benefits.

"Three additional rulemaking packages will follow," Jarratt said. "Those packages will cover new fraud and abuse penalties, provisions to provide Puerto Rico with a low income nutrition assistance block grant to replace stamp funding, and procedures for state welfare agencies to begin monthly reporting and retrospective accounting systems for administration of the food stamp program."

Proposed rules on fraud penalties and claims collection procedures will be ready for public comment in October, with final rules expected early next year.

TRANSPORTATION ROLE FOR LISA R. SMITH

Airman Lisa R. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Steward of 1609 Poplar St., Granite City, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing six-week Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

"She will now receive specialized instruction in the transportation field. She is a 1981 Granite City high school graduate."

If assessments this year show an increase in the assessed valuation of Granite City, property taxes to support the city will decrease, because of the identical levy of $2.5 million collected this summer to support the 1980-81 budget.

A breakdown of the levies approved Thursday night follows.

For the general fund, a tax levy of $337,500 was approved to support the local taxing share of a general fund budget totaling $2,432,267.

A levy of $96,824 is extended as the tax portion of repaying $150,000 in storm water general obligation bonds during the fiscal year.

The police department's $1,588,762 budget will be aided by a tax levy of $301,765, and there is no levy needed for the reimbursable work portion of the police budget, since that is paid by firms which hire off-duty policemen for security at stores, restaurants and savings institutions.

A total of $250,123 is levied to support a portion of the fire department's budget of $1,042,142 and $148,269 is levied to help support the street department's budget of $863,594.

Another $60,350 is levied to support the $230,000 budget for street lighting in the city and $141,250 is levied toward a garbage collection contract of $460,000.

For maintaining sewers, $69,568 is levied, which is identical to the budget. Nothing is levied for the sanitation department and its $27,530 budget will be supported from funding sources other than taxation.

A total of $12,640 is levied for civil defense, which has a budget of $21,099, and there is no tax levy for the safety department, which has a $119,118 budget.

For the firemen's and police pension funds, $300,000 is budgeted for each for a total of $600,000 the city will contribute.

A levy of $400,309 will support the public library's $516,166 budget. Anticipated income from book sales, late returns of books and other funds will support the remainder of the budget.

There is no city tax levy needed to support the $1,414,881 community development fund budget or the $707,960 federal revenue sharing fund, since both are supported entirely by federal grants.

Neither is there a levy for the city's sewage treatment plant budget of $1,830,757, since the plant is supposed to be self-sustaining on revenues generated from users.

The levies approved Thursday night will be delivered to County Clerk Evelyn Bowles, who then will compare them to the 1981 assessed valuation of the city to determine the tax rates.

Mayor Paul Schuler had said at last Tuesday night's city council meeting that the aldermen would have to approve some form of additional taxation by Thursday night or risk having the county clerk override the levy to support the full budget.

Miss Bowles denied that in Thursday's Press-Record and called Mayor Schuler to explain that she never changes a levy and her job is only to extend a tax rate which will produce the amount of money sought in the levy.

Schuler told the council Thursday night, "Apparently she is not going to do it. I stand corrected. My information was incorrect."

Alderman Mac Wainfield of the Sixth Ward then said he saw no reason to pass additional taxes during Thursday night's special session and noted, "We've got tax money coming in soon. We don't have to repay the bank ($1.2 million in warrants and tax anticipation warrants) in three days."

He and other aldermen suggested that the city wait on imposing any kind of new tax until it is determined if a sales tax can be imposed.

They then rejected emergency measures to place a two percent tax on taverns, package liquor stores and restaurants and a three percent tax on motel room rentals. A separate story on those actions appears on today's front page.

Square dance class to open

The "Moose Squares" Square Dance Club will sponsor an adult square dance class for beginners starting at 8 p.m. Monday, Sept. 14.

The sessions, open to Moose members and their guests, will be held every Monday evening at the Moose Lodge, 2425 N. Illinois, Bellview.

Joe Obel, O'Fallon, will be the instructor.

For further information, contact Ruth Dowling, 2906 Indiana Ave., Granite City, telephone: 678-0948.

Night helicopter exercise in Italy

Marine Pfc. Mitchell D. Steen, son of Ellen L. and Ray W. Steen Jr. of 286 Sunny Shore, has conducted tactical warfare training in Italy.

He is a member of Battalion Landing Team 34, 34th Marine Amphibious Unit (MAU), Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Following helicopter assaults from ships into an Italian training area, the 34th MAU conducted tactical training with the San Marco Tactical Group, a small, elite Italian force similar to the U.S. Marine Corps.

Highlighted in the training was a night helicopter assault from the U.S.S. Guadalcanal. Conducted in total darkness and under radio silence, the assault demonstrated the Marines' ability to strike quickly at night from the sea to secure inland objectives.

A 1979 graduate of Granite City High School North, Steen joined the Marine Corps in August 1980.

Film showing at Suburban Baptist

"Reflections of His Love," a new film highlighting the life and ministry of Joni Eareckson, will be shown on Sunday, Sept. 13, at the Suburban Baptist Church, St. Clair Avenue and Mulvillie Road.

The color feature, produced by World Wide Pictures, the film ministry of the Billy Graham Association, will be shown once, beginning at 7 p.m.

Miss Eareckson is the star of a recent theatrical motion picture, "Joni," which relates the story of her diving accident as a young girl which left her paralyzed from the neck down. It chronicles her struggles to piece together her life and her faith in God, in spite of the devastating circumstances.

In "Reflections of His Love," Miss Eareckson, who is also the author of two best-selling books, "Joni" and "A Step Further," tells of the great transformations that have taken place in her life because of her willingness to accept all of the things that have happened to her.

Pastor Harold Garrett has extended an invitation to the community to attend this special screening. There is no admission charge.

Directory for handicap

The Illinois Department of Rehabilitation Services (DORS) has released the second annual edition of the Directory of State Services for Handicapped People.

Prepared in compliance with statutory mandate, this year's 54-page book lists services available through local education, medical and rehabilitation services, financial support, financial benefits and counseling, housing assistance and subsidies, transportation, vocational training, employment, independent living skills training, recreation programs, psychiatric counseling, and services available through the Secretary of State's Office including special license plates and services available through local public libraries.

Information about the services offered by more than 20 state agencies which are of special benefit to disabled persons are listed in the directory. All Department of Mental Health facilities are listed, as are all Social Security offices in the state.

Copies of the directory may be obtained from DORS at 622 E. Adams, Springfield 62706, or from any of DORS' more than 50 client services offices in the state.

The Disabled Individual's Assistance Line (DIAL) is also a source of information about services for disabled people and has a supply of the directory. To contact DIAL, place a collect call to 312-798-5000, voice or TDD. DIAL is one of the many programs listed for the Department of Rehabilitation Services in the second edition of the Directory.

October auditions scheduled at SIUE

The Twelfth Annual District Auditions of the Metropolitan Opera National Council's Auditions program are scheduled in October at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, according to William Tarwater, chairman of the SIUE department of music.

Deadlines for application is Oct. 2.

Auditions for qualified candidates from Southern Illinois are scheduled in the Communications Building theater, beginning at 1 p.m. on Oct. 23.

The most promising contestants will be selected to compete against other district audition winners from the central region.

Regional semi-finals and final will be held at Orchestra Hall, 200 South Michigan Ave., in Chicago on Monday, Nov. 16.

The first-place winner in the regional finals will then be sent to New York, at National Council expense, to compete in the national semi-finals. Winners from 16 regional auditions before the general manager and his artistic staff on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House.

Cosponsoring the event are the SIUE Friends of Music, with Mrs. Maurice Dailey and Mrs. Gehe Sternberg as co-chairpersons.

Applicants must have been residents or studied in the Southern Illinois district for the past 12 months and be within the following age limits throughout the period from Oct. 1, 1981 to April 15, 1982: sopranos, 20-30; mezzo and contraltos, 20-30; tenors, 20-32; baritone, 20-32; and basses, 20-33. No age waivers will be granted, Tarwater said.

Content must have voices with operatic possibilities, some voice training, musical background, and artistic aptitude. They must be prepared to sing a minimum of five arias, in more than one language and contrasting style.

Contestants must pay a $10 entry fee, and they must be sponsored by a school, college, music club or voice teacher, Tarwater said.

District awards consist of three cash prizes of $75 each. Application forms and other information may be obtained by contacting William Tarwater, chairman of the SIUE department of music, at (618) 692-3900.

Fuel conservation grants recommended

The Illinois Institute of Natural Resources has recommended that 414 Illinois school districts managed by schools, hospitals, colleges and other public agencies—be awarded more than $8.2 million in federal energy conservation grants.

Included are the Madison County Nursing Home and the Granite City school district, chosen as third grant cycle recipients.

Recent agencies would add a comparable amount of their own funds for building audits and energy conservation measures. With the matching non-federal funds, the amount spent for energy conservation would exceed $14.6 million.

The grants are intended to allow institutions to pinpoint their energy-loss areas and reduce their energy costs.

The state's recommendation does not guarantee that the applications will be funded by the U. S. Department of Energy. DOE will review the requests, and notices of grant awards are expected to be sent out in mid-September.

Occupational Health Services now at SEMC

GINNY LEPPING, RN

by DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

A new concept in Industrial Medicine has been initiated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center where occupational health nurses have structured a service developed to satisfy the needs of local industry in an effort to conserve the health of workers in diversified occupations.

The major objectives of the program are to maintain good health through constant medical monitoring and to prevent occupational illness and injury among employed groups of people by means of health education and prompt, efficient medical care.

Ginny Lepping came to the local medical center in January of this year to begin the initial structure, framework and marketing for such a project. The department saw their first patients in April and since that time has been dealing with 25 Quad-City companies.

Miss Lepping, Industrial Medicine Program coordinator, formerly was director of Occupational Health for a trade union in St. Louis, where she worked for two years on the pilot project through an OSHA grant with headquarters in Washington, D.C. In July Miss Karen Dannenberg, who has an extensive background in the field of occupational health nursing, became a member of the staff.

Miss Dannenberg was employed as a head nurse at the Sutter Clinic in St. Louis for five years and then transferred to Children's Hospital in Buffalo, N.Y., where she was an associate nurse at the facility employing some 1200 people.

The Industrial Program Services offered at St. Elizabeth in the Health Appraisal category includes, pre-employment physicals; annual testing by a qualified industrial physician, executive and middle management health evaluations; Workman's Compensation evaluations; termination clearance; return to duty and other physical evaluations.

Health and Coordination by an Occupational Health Nurse includes procedures to indicate the presence of illness in its early stages, screen for life-style factors that can be detrimental to health.

Testing Services available are laboratory tests (CBC, SMA-4, BUN, Glucose, blood lead level, screen, urinalysis), vision screening, electrocardiogram, pulmonary function screening, audiogram, chest and or spine x-rays, other tests tailored to meet specific needs upon request.

Program hours at the present time are Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Medical Center entrance off 21st Street, adjacent to the Emergency Room. There is free parking in garage or in Emergency Room area when necessary.

Other facets of the program is immunization for overseas travel, trauma follow-ups for cases such as eye injuries, burns, workman's compensation and the establishment of referrals of those injured.

In addition to the 25 firms who make use of the service the program has expanded to offer medical care for truck drivers, firemen, police officers, and construction workers are also involved in the program as well as the Granite City Army Installation, Miss Lepping announced.

Last year Miss Lepping attended a conference of Occupational Health Nurses in Australia and plans to attend the 1982 National Conference in June to convene in Adelaide, South Australia. Miss Dannenberg tentatively plans to attend the conference also which is expected to take six weeks.

In discussing the trip last year, Miss Lepping said she made appointments with people involved in the same health field in California, who had informational data on the Australian program prior to going overseas.

She drove cross country to visit the mining fields, nickel smelter, gold mines and some private businesses that are in a pilot program. In all she spoke with over 75 people in different sectors of the country on physicals, nurses, management, unions and the success of the occupational health nursing venture.

Less than 15 percent of the population of 14½ million live in rural areas and they primarily are attended by a flying doctor service whom they reach by telephone or radio when medical care is needed.

The educational trips to Australia is Mrs. McDonald said he had been a language barrier and the country is similar to the United States in size and has adaptable situations in connection with industry, Miss Lepping added.

Small Business Council proposed

A meeting to discuss formation of an Illinois Area Small Business Council under the auspices of the Regional Commerce and Growth Association has been called by the RCGA for noon Tuesday, Sept. 15, at the Collinsville Holiday Inn, 155 and Illinois 27.

The aim of the Council would be to provide a voice for small business in this metropolitan area and to provide for an exchange of ideas and views among RCGA members.

To be discussed at the first meeting is the possibility of sending a delegation of Southwestern Illinois small business owner-operators to Springfield in October for a statewide small-business conference.

Small business members of the RCGA have organized area councils in the western and southern parts of the St. Louis metropolitan region. The Illinois Area Council would be the third such group.

"Many government agencies at the state and national levels are paying too much more attention to small business these days," commented James M. O'Flynn, RCGA president. "Some have even said the 1980s will be the decade of small business."

"The importance of the business entrepreneur is coming to be recognized in our economy, even as numerous pressures mount against small firms."

"We want the Illinois Area Council to be a significant force for promoting the interests of small business."

Watch for errors on tax bills, assessor warns

"Check your tax bills before paying them. That is the warning being issued by Granite City Township Tax Assessor Val DeCruse, who has found numerous errors in the computation of taxes in the township."

Cruse said the most common mistake that has been brought to his attention is failure of the county to credit assessment reductions to homeowners who filled for such reductions under Senate Bill 1790 or the Homestead exemption law. "Persons who suspect their tax bills are too high should take them to Cruse's office in the basement of city hall before paying them. Once an erroneous tax bill has been paid, it is very difficult or impossible to correct the error, he warned."

Granite City Alderman Everett Moros of the First Ward told city council Thursday night that when he received his tax bill he immediately paid it. Later he found out the bill was for

Nitrous oxide stolen at clinic could be dangerous

A cylinder of nitrous oxide which was stolen this week from the dental clinic on the Alton campus of the Southern Illinois University School of Dental Medicine could be extremely dangerous if used incorrectly, according to officers of the School and the University Police.

Police Chief Charles McDonald said he had been advised that nitrous oxide, normally used as a mild anesthetic, can be lethal if it is not properly mixed with oxygen.

Chief McDonald said several items have been stolen from the clinic in recent weeks. Wrenches and oxygen gauges were reported missing several weeks ago, and on the night of Aug. 25, a regulator and mask were taken from the clinic. In the theft this week, gauges were taken along with the nitrous oxide cylinder, which was described as blue and approximately two feet high and six inches in diameter.

Police said there was no evidence of building break-ins in connection with the thefts.

Registration dates set for special SIUE course

Seven undergraduates and six graduate courses will be offered at the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Scott Air Force Base Resident Center during the fall quarter, according to Christa Oxford, assistant director in the Office of Continuing Education.

Registration is scheduled in Room 22 of Building 3190 on the military base Sept. 10 and 11 from 8:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. and Sept. 12 from 8 a.m. until noon.

Registration may also be accomplished on the Edwardsville campus during regular registration; by appointment only on Sept. 22 from 8:30 a.m. until 9 p.m. and on Sept. 23 from 8:30 a.m. until 1 p.m.; and during open registration Sept. 23 from 1:15 p.m. until 9 p.m.; Sept. 24 from 8:30 a.m. until 9 p.m. and Sept. 25 from 8:30 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Military personnel and their dependents, civil service workers at the military base, and area civilians are eligible to enroll in classes at the University's Scott Resident Center.

All graduate courses in business offered at Scott AFB are part of the Master of Business Administration (MBA) program and are conducted on a weekend format. Classes meet Fridays from 6 until 10 p.m., Saturdays from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. and Sundays from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Students must obtain syllabus and textbooks at the Scott Resident Center at least three weeks prior to the first class meeting. The MBA courses being offered and the class dates include: Managerial Accounting (AC 521-4), weekends of Nov. 13 and Dec. 4; National Income Analysis and Policy (EC 507-4), weekends of Sept. 25 and Oct. 16; Introduction to Corporate Finance (FI 503-4), weekends of Nov. 22 and Dec. 11; Seminar in Managerial Performance (MG 553-4), weekends of Oct. 2 and 23.

Undergraduate courses in business will include: Management; Organizational Theory Practice and Policy (MG 340-4), meeting on Tuesdays from 6 until 10 p.m.; Marketing and Its Environments (MG 370-4), meeting on Thursdays from 6 until 10 p.m.; and Business Ethics (PHIL 470-4) meeting on Mondays from 5:30 until 9:20 p.m.

Mitchell Athletic Fall Festival set

Mitchell Athletic Association will sponsor its 22nd annual Fall Festival to open Friday, Sept. 11, and continue through the weekend, on Saturday and Sunday at the Greenway East grounds, just off East Chain of Rocks Road, according to Harry Breckner, president of the association.

The event will start at 6 p.m. Friday and feature a carnival atmosphere with game booths, rides, various items for sale, and a food booth with roast beef, barbecue, worksteaks, fried chicken, fish, hamburgers, hot dogs, and soft drinks included on the menu.

At 8 p.m. Friday dancing will be to the music of the Joey Jai Band.

Saturday and Sunday the opening hours is 12 noon with the Dave White Ramblers, a country-western musical group to entertain at 6 p.m. followed by two shows at 8 and 10 p.m., featuring the music of Sam and John Fornasewski's Musical Delights.

Activities planned for Sunday include the awarding of trophies to a girl's softball team and a boy's baseball team at 1:30 p.m. to be followed at 2 p.m. by a dance performance presented by the students of the Jerry Green Studio. At 3 p.m. pupils of Sharold Young School of Baton will also perform.

Weather permitting, the highlight of the three-day event will be the hot air balloon demonstration at 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, by Dan Balkier. Balkier announces the demonstration will only be presented with favorable weather conditions.

Breckner said all proceeds will be used to sponsor boys and girls softball and baseball teams, 8 soccer teams during the fall and basketball teams for the winter season.

The organization purchased an additional eight acres of ground behind Mitchell School for its enlarged programs and facility and expects to make the final payment this year, so some of the proceeds from the festival will be directed to that project, the president explained.

Madison Lions invite local participation in candy drive

The kids are back from camp, the battle against crab grass has been fought, and Dad is spurring around trying to squeeze in a last weekend of fishing.

If all means summer is about over. For the Lions, it means work has just begun. The week is Candy Day, and although it won't be held until Oct. 9, plans must be made now to be sure that the Madison Lions Club does its part, along with other clubs in the state, to meet the statewide goal of $1.2 million to help the blind, visually handicapped, deaf, and hearing impaired.

How early stamps got their pinhole

America's first stamp dealer was William P. Brown, who opened his business in New York City in 1860. He bought stamps for a cent apiece, pinned them on park railings to display his wares, and sold them for 5 cents each.

The pinhole found in many classic U.S. stamps is traceable to Brown's unorthodox merchandising method.

POCKET VETO

Annual Antique car show is set in Springfield Sept. 12

Secretary of State Jim Edgar has announced the 30th annual Antique Auto and Sports Car Meet and Flea Market will be held Saturday, Sept. 12, in Springfield.

Edgar, who will serve as co-ordinator, said the meet will be at the Muni Opera Site at Lake Springfield for the sixth consecutive year.

"A 1915 Sears High Wheeler, 1912 IHC truck and 1914 Case pump car are a few of the older vehicles entered in this year's meet," Edgar said. "Expensive entries include a 1931 Cadillac and 1931 LaSalle, both worth $60,000 to $100,000, and a 1966 Ferrari Race car in the $25,000 to $35,000 range."

Awards will be presented to five division winners, as well as first, second and third place winners in 38 classes.

New this year will be a special Marquis award honoring the products of the Ford Motor Division, Ford, Thunderbirds, Mustangs and Shelby will be eligible. Other manufacturers will be honored in future years on a rotating basis.

Proceeds from the meet will be donated to the Illinois Heart Association.

The Flea Market includes all kinds of car parts and related items.

The first Antique Auto Meet was held in 1949 and attracted between 160 and 180 cars. The meet was discontinued in 1960, but resumed in 1982 and has been held every year since.

Industries may get their first bills from pretreatment plan

Industry will feel the first pinch soon from the Granite City's new sewage pretreatment program if the city council approves an ordinance requested last week to have the 17 industries surveyed for the program divide the $34,000 bill for that survey.

Svedrup & Parcel and Associates, engineers for the pretreatment program, submitted the bill to the council last week and Alderman Warren Decatur, chairman of the treatment plant committee, requested that an ordinance be prepared authorizing the city to bill the industries surveyed $2,000 each to reimburse the city for the study.

The pretreatment program, mandated by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), requires that industry bear the entire cost of the study and the program, which includes frequent monitoring of the sewage discharge of major industrial users of the city's sewers to determine if harmful or difficult to treat substances are being disposed of in the sewers.

After initial testing, discharge permits will be issued to each industry by the city, establishing the requirements each must meet to pretreat its own sewage, if harmful or unusual discharges are occurring. The pretreatment ordinance, which is yet to be passed by the city council, also allows the city to assess fines on industries not meeting the conditions of their discharge permits.

Terrance McMillan, superintendent of the sewage treatment plant, has explained that the pretreatment program should not only stop and dangerous and difficult to treat substances from reaching the treatment plant, but should also force industry to pay for its fair share of the time spent by city employees dealing with such heavy metals, chemicals and other substances which have been reaching the treatment plant.

It also should stop the discharge of hazardous substances into the Mississippi River from the city's sewage treatment plant. The city has been sent several letters of warning from the EPA for such illegal discharges and McMillan has urged speedy approval of the pretreatment program, before the EPA or Illinois EPA decide to take enforcement actions against the city.

Aldermen have hesitated to implement the program because it will call for the hiring of an additional employee to take sewage samples at the industries and the city currently is under a hiring freeze due to financial problems.

On a positive note, the council was told that there had been no employee absences at the treatment plant for the prior three weeks. The plant had come under fire by Decatur and the Press-Record for what appeared to be extensive use of sick leave time for personal holidays.

The 21st Amendment to the Constitution was adopted on Dec. 5, 1933, repealing Prohibition.

Defer 'zip' incentive for volume mailers

The Postal Service said Wednesday that as a result of recent Congressional action it was temporarily deferring its request for approval of an incentive for volume mailers using the ZIP + 4 Code.

In the Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, signed into law Aug. 13, the Postal Service was authorized to proceed with preparatory steps toward the implementation of the ZIP + 4 program, but was directed by Congress not to put into effect a ZIP + 4 rate incentive for mailers before Oct. 1, 1983.

"In light of this provision of the new law," Postmaster General William F. Bolger said, "we are withdrawing our current filing with the Postal Rate Commission seeking approval of a ZIP + 4 request and on a separate basis will allow mailers to take advantage of incentive rates as soon as they can legally be made available."

Bolger termed the provision of the law delaying the incentive "unfortunate, because it denies volume mailers the ability to start saving on their postage bills sooner rather than later." But, he said, "our commitment to the ZIP + 4 program remains strong, because it represents a significant step toward controlling costs and stabilizing future postage rate increases."

The Postal Service, filed with the independent Postal Rate Commission in the ZIP + 4 matter last April 21, prior to the Congressional action.

The proposal was to offer a half-cent discount per First-Class letter or card to qualifying volume mailers who converted their mailing lists to ZIP + 4. The filing would have established two ZIP + 4 bulk subclasses of First-Class Mail, and the rate reduction would have been allowed for 500 or more First-Class letters or cards mailed at one time that bore the ZIP + 4 Code readable by optical character reader equipment.

Bolger said, "A late filing will enable us to include updated information in our case and will have no practical effect on mailers since the incentive could not, in any case, under current law be made available before Oct. 1, 1983."

Lia Salem with ballet company

Lia Salem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Salem, 3836 John Glenn Drive, has accepted a position as an apprentice with the San Antonio Ballet Company. She is on a full scholarship for classes and will receive a weekly stipend. Her schedule will include rehearsals and classes from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. most weekdays.

The company's first production will be "Oct. 21, and will be 'Jazzy Blues' a new work created for the company by Yacov Sharit to the music of John Coltrane, and a work by Lynne Taylor, and a work by Lynne Taylor, Corbett who will be in residence in September, and a classical work.

Miss Salem is a North High School graduate and studied at the School of the Pennsylvania Ballet this summer and performed with the Gavlova Celebration Company at the St. Louis Municipal Opera.

The company has a nine month season and the artistic director is Vladimir Marek.

Cloud 'rained' hay On the afternoon of July 3, 1977, a great cloud of hay drifted over Devizes, England, and when it got to the town's center it fell, dropping handful-sized clumps of hay all over. The sky was otherwise clear and cloudless, with a slight breeze.

U.S. envoy 'Yankee king of Spain' One of our most flamboyant diplomats was Daniel E. Sickles, appointed minister to Spain in 1889. Earlier he served in London, where he had his mistress presented to Queen Victoria.

He lived lavishly in Madrid and often traveled to Paris, where he had an affair with Isabella II, the deposed queen of Spain. Parisian society dubbed Sickles "The Yankee king of Spain."

Hispanic week, 1981 Mexican fiesta planned

National Hispanic Heritage Week will be observed here in Mid-September.

In 1968, the president and Congress decided to set aside a week in September each year for observance of this nation's Hispanic legacy.

In preparation for the 1981 celebration, President Reagan has issued a proclamation declaring the week beginning Sept. 13 as National Hispanic Heritage Week. Similar proclamations have been issued by local government officials in this metropolitan area.

On Sept. 16, the Hispanic Employment Program Coordinator's Council will hold its annual award luncheon together with a luncheon at the Mayfair Hotel, 8th and St. Charles streets, St. Louis.

Guest speaker will be Gus Rebledo, regional coordinator of Hispanic programs for the central region of the United States Postal Service. All federal agency heads, supervisors, personnel officers and others responsible for administering the Hispanic employment program are being invited to attend.

Two fiestas will be presented to commemorate the 171st anniversary of Mexican independence.

The Mexican Society "Benito Juarez" will sponsor one of the fiestas on Saturday, Sept. 12, at the Carondelet Sunday Morning Athletic Club, 1012 Loughborough, St. Louis.

The Mexican Honorary Commission of Granite City will present the other fiesta on Sept. 19 at its hall located at 1801 Spruce St., Granite City.

Both fiestas will begin at 8 p.m. and will feature Mexican dances, followed by music, refreshments and Mexican food will be available for purchase.

The St. Charles Borromeo Church located at 2913 Locust also will be the focal point of several activities during National Hispanic Heritage Week.

Soccer dropped

LEBANON — McKendree College athletic director, Harry M. Statham has announced that their varsity soccer program will be interrupted for the 1981 season.

"The program will be continued next season," Statham stressed. "But due to the late appointment of Dave Horace as head soccer coach and the lack of player personnel (the Bears had five returning players), the program will be discontinued for this year only."

Horace was officially named to the head coaching position in early August, following the resignation of two-year coach, John Casey in late June. Horace will continue as soccer coach at McKendree College, beginning recruitment for the 1982 season immediately.

County drops 94 manpower jobs

Madison County in a surprise move last week laid off 94 workers whose salaries were financed by the Office of Manpower Development. The action was announced by Manpower Director Dan Churovich who said the layoffs were motivated by a lack of funds. "We just ran out of money. We didn't even see it coming," he said. Churovich said his office discovered suddenly it had run out of money and knew something had to be done. County officials were notified they would be losing the workers enrolled in the Summer Youth Program which employs workers between 14 and 21. The federally financed department has an annual budget of $791,000 which now is gone. The county departments affected by the move will have to do the jobs themselves, Churovich added.

New funeral home is open

A new funeral home to be known as Memorial Chapel was officially opened Sunday, Aug. 30, in a renovated building located at 615 Madison Ave., Madison, by James C. Parker, owner and operator of the facility. Parker is an employee of Kassidy Funeral Home in Collinsville, where he is continuing to work on a tentative schedule until he is needed on a full time basis at the Madison location. The business office is open seven days a week with Nancy Baudino working there as secretary. Parker, who is a licensed funeral director, is a resident of Edwardsville. He graduated from Edwardsville High School in 1968 and is a graduate of Washburn College of Morticians School in Chicago. The new businessman is married to the former Cynthia Hanfelder of Edwardsville. They reside in Edwardsville with their four children, Kelly, 8, Matthew, 6, Michael, 4, and Mark who is 7½ months old.

Picnic for seniors Sept. 15 at ice rink

The Granite City Park District will hold its annual Senior Citizen's Fall Picnic on Tuesday, Sept. 15, at the Wilson Park ice rink pavilion. The festivities are scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. Sept. 15, with a game period, lasting until 5 p.m. and featuring pinocle, bridge and other games. Those planning to attend are being asked to bring a basket lunch for the picnic. The picnic meal will take place from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. All local senior citizens are being encouraged to attend the gala event, a park district spokesman advised. Friends may be invited. Additional information concerning the activity may be obtained by contacting the Granite City Township Center staff or the park office at 877-3058.

Lebanon race

LEBANON The Lebanon Chamber of Commerce has announced plans for the third annual Fall festival Footrace to be held Saturday, Oct. 3. Premier distance runner Craig Virgin will be the featured runner in the four-mile event, which will wind through the streets of Lebanon beginning at Lebanon High School. Awards will be given to the top three finishers in nine age categories for both men and women. In addition to the race, beginning at 9:30 a.m., there will be various hand-crafted items made by local craftspeople, as well as home made foods and apple cider. T-shirts will be given to all race participants. Entry forms are available from the merchants of Lebanon, Illinois or by contacting: Front Runner, Inc., 208 A West St. Louis Street, Lebanon, IL 62254, or call (618) 537-6112. Pre-race entry fee is $5, with race day entry fee set at $6. UNDERCOATING—RALPH'S TEXACO 22nd & MADISON AVE.
